REDS CHARGE NEW U.S. VIOLATIONS

India Will Not Sign Jap Pact

U. S. Rejects Objections, Saying Imperfections Must Be Accepted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — India refused formally today to attend the San Francisco conference next month or sign the Japanese peace treaty sponsored by the United States and Britain. The action drew a brusquely worded American suggestion that every country has to take what it may consider "imperfections" to get international agreement.

The great South Asian nation raised objections to the draft, related on one hand to Prime Minister Nehru's Asia-for-Asiatics policy, and on the other hand to his bid for a position of "neutrality" in the conflict between Soviet Russia and the West.

India's Logic Questioned

This country responded with a denial of the suggestion that the proposed pact carries "the seeds of another war" in the Far East. The 1,500-word note questioned the logic by which India arrived at simultaneous conclusions that (1) the Ryukyu and Bonin Islands, proposed for U. S. trusteeship, should go back to Japan (2) the Kuriles and South Sakhalin should be confirmed as Russian and (3) Formosa should go to Communist China.

In response to India's argument that the provision for keeping American troops in Japan will look like a condition imposed by a conqueror, the U. S. note said the alternative is to leave Japan defenseless right under the fist of a known aggressor.

High diplomatic officials expressed fear India's turn-down of the bid to the conference starting Sept. 4 would give powerful propaganda ammunition to Russia in its campaign to block signing of the pact.

49 Nations To Attend

A 35-member Soviet delegation, headed by Acting Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, has sailed from France en route to the United States to attend the conference. The common belief among diplomats here is that it has the mission of a wrecking crew.

The U. S.-India exchange was made public at the State Department tonight. India's note was dated Aug. 23 and the American response Aug. 25.

A total of 49 countries have made arrangements to attend the conference in San Francisco including Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia. Burma and Yugoslavia have joined India in turning down invitations. Egypt, Syria and Lebanon have not yet indicated whether they will attend.

American officials were disappointed at India's decision and particularly irked at the reasons advanced by the New Delhi government for objecting to the treaty.

Although it plays into Russia's propaganda offensive, these officials expressed belief India's move was not dictated by a desire to aid Moscow in its anti-Western campaign.

Russians Assail Jap Treaty, U. S. Curbs On Trade

Would Make Nippon "American Colony"

MOSCOW, Aug. 26 (AP) — The government newspaper Izvestia today assailed the proposed Japanese peace treaty as an American attempt to set Japan against other Asian peoples and make it into an American colony.

In another long editorial, Izvestia renewed its attack on the United States for cancelling the Soviet-American trade pact of 1937.

This, the paper said, is creating "artificial barriers" between the Soviet and American peoples. It added that annulment of the treaty is proof that declarations of friendship by President Truman and by Congress are empty words designed to mask the real aggressive intentions toward Russia and its people.

Izvestia said the American-sponsored Japanese peace treaty, which will be laid before the San Francisco conference opening Sept. 4, and the proposed Japanese-American military agreement mean "strangulation of the national interests of Japan."

The paper said the treaty was "generous" to the government of Premier Shigeru Yoshida, which it said is "afraid of the Japanese people and therefore prefers to govern the country from behind a palisade of American bayonets." But for the Japanese people as a whole, it said, it means colonial status.

Izvestia said the military agreement will give the United States the right to maintain unlimited forces in Japan, as well as extensive naval bases, and will give American troops free movement throughout Japan.

ROKs Battling To Regain Ridge

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 27 (Monday)—(INS)—Three thousand North Korean troops took a ridgeline on the east-central front in Korea Sunday but South Korean forces counterattacked and by nightfall were making limited gains.

An Eighth Army communique said that heavy fighting raged all day in the renewed flareup of the "battle of the hills" in the area north of Yanggu.

The Red assault was launched at 2 a. m. by two North Korean companies and the full regiment went on the offensive at dawn.

By mid-morning the Allies had lost most of the ridge.

But in the evening, the South Koreans regained the offensive and the Reds were slowly falling back at nightfall.

Action on the remainder of the fighting front was limited to patrols.

Communist commanders kept up their dogged effort to resupply their front-line troops despite relentless pounding by Allied air and naval arms. On Saturday alone 800 Communist vehicles were destroyed.

Another Billion Cut In Aid Bill Proposed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—An across-the-board cut of $1,000,000,000 in the $7,535,000,000 foreign aid authorization bill was proposed today by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich).

At the same time, Sen. George (D-Ga) told reporters he is not satisfied with the $964,000,000 the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees slashed out of President Truman's $8,500,000,000 request.

George said he may offer an amendment himself when the bill comes before the Senate early this week, but said he hadn't yet determined the amount.

McKeldin Might Run For Vice President

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 26 (AP) — Back from a whirlwind 10,000 mile guided tour of the West, Maryland's Gov. McKeldin tonight speculated on the nation's political temper and indicated that he might be willing to run for vice president on a Republican ticket.

"If they want a good whistle-stop campaigner for a second place on the ticket, they might look this way," he said in an interview at the governor's mansion.

It was not altogether certain who the governor thought might make a good running mate in the number one position.

"Top Down" Probe Of OSS Slaying Urged

Rep. Cole Assails Pentagon Attitude

WASHINGTON, Aug 26 (AP) — Rep. Cole (R-NY) today called for "a-top-to-bottom" investigation by the House Armed Services Committee of what he termed "the Defense Department's baffling performance in connection with the death of OSS Maj. William V. Holohan.

The Office of Strategic Services was this country's "cloak-and-dagger" outfit for spying and counter intelligence.

Many of its files on Americans who fought behind enemy lines are secret to protect techniques and contacts that might be needed again. But last week the Pentagon lifted the cover on a story about Holohan that rivals the paper-bound whodunits at the corner news stand.

Allegedly Slain By Aides

Maj. Holohan headed a mission that was dropped behind enemy lines in Italy to aid partisans. He was slain by his own American aides, according to a story now told by Italians who are soon to go on trial in Italy as accomplices.

The Americans, Lt. Aldo Icardi, Pittsburgh, and Sgt. Carlo G. Lodolce, Rochester, N. Y., the radio operator, deny the Italians story and Lodolce has repudiated a confession attributed to him.

Cole said in a statement that the first question for the Defense Department to answer is why, as he puts it, it has shown so little interest in pushing the case to a final and complete solution.

Developments "Suppressed"

The second question that the Defense Department must answer, Cole said, is why it suppressed developments for more than a year.

"One of the two Americans charged with the murder by the Defense Department signed a confession on August 3, 1950. Two Italian partisans confessed in March 1950," said Cole.

"Yet the Defense Department concealed the truth until Aug. 15 when an advance copy of True magazine with an expose of the case arrived at the Pentagon."

Police Break Up Stockholm Riot

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 26 (AP) — Police swung sabers and clubs in the heart of normally calm Stockholm early today to break up park hangers-on apparently rioting just for the fun of it.

Police reported several persons injured in the large-scale fighting and arrested 16 men and three women. One person had ribs splintered from a saber jab.

About 50 policemen charged repeatedly into a crowd of several thousand and finally broke up the battle after several hours. The fights started soon after midnight.

Crowds have rioted on a smaller scale and without any political motivation for the past six weekends.

The weekend battles started when police raided Berzeli Park, a favorite spot for prostitutes and their men friends. The park lies opposite the Royal Dramatic Theater.

Egypt Rewards Trio Who Swam Channel

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 26 (AP) — The Egyptian government today awarded a total of £1,500 ($4,200) to three Egyptians who swam the English Channel Aug. 16.

The awards were the same sums as the prizes offered by the London Daily Mail to winners in its annual channel race. The Egyptians rejected their prizes, declaring that the newspaper had "slandered" King Farouk I of Egypt.

'Muscle Builder' Macfadden 'Chutes Into Hudson River

ALPINE, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP) — Eighty-three-year-old Bernarr Macfadden, the "muscle builder" physical culturist, parachuted from a plane into the Hudson River today, landing safely 20 feet from the New Jersey shore.

Rescuers dragged him from the water into a fishing boat as he boasted:

"I feel like a million."

Next year, he said "I'm going to jump over Niagara Falls."

But his octogenarian antics nearly landed Macfadden into trouble today.

While several thousand persons watched from the opposite Yonkers shore, Macfadden's chute took him within 20 feet of the huge rocks piling the New Jersey bank below the towering Palisades.

Two Yonkers river men and a fireman who were crabbing nearby pulled Macfadden from the water into their boat.

This year he had planned to observe his birthday by parachuting above Niagara Falls and landing in the churning waters below the cataract.

This project was dropped, at least temporarily, because Macfadden said "there was just too darned much red tape between the American and Canadian authorities."

Macfadden said today's jump was made to prove the "safety of parachuting into water" to young airmen in the U. S. armed services.

Russia, Hungary Reportedly Sign Military Treaty

Calls For Exchange Of Training Units

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Hungary and Soviet Russia have signed a secret military agreement permitting the Red army to send new units to Hungary for training in addition to maintaining already large Soviet occupation forces, it was reported today.

A refugee who has just reached Western Europe said the agreement was signed at Budapest in early June. His identity cannot be given because his family is still in Hungary, but he had close contacts in the Hungarian Defense Ministry.

He said the agreement was signed by Hungary under orders from Moscow. It calls for the Hungarian army to send complete units to Russia for training and maneuvers with Red army units, and for the Red army to send complete units to Hungary for similar purposes—all at Hungary's expense.

There have been previous reports of a secret Russian-Hungarian agreement permitting Soviet troops to remain in Hungary indefinitely. These reports, also from refugee sources, have said that this agreement was part of a Soviet-Hungarian mutual aid and no-aggression pact, concluded after the signing of the Hungarian peace treaty.

Under the treaty, Soviet troops are supposed to leave Hungary as soon as a treaty of independence is signed with Austria. Russia was permitted to leave troops in Hungary because she claimed the need for protecting supply lines to Soviet occupation troops in Austria.

Berlin Red Police Release Two GIs

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (AP)—Two American soldiers who were seized last night by Communist police in the Soviet sector of Berlin were released tonight unharmed by the Russians after 22 hours detention.

They were Cpl. Robert Lentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lentz, Hamilton, Ohio, and Cpl. Alvin S. Bryson, whose wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Bryson, live at Asheville, N. C.

"We just got off at the wrong bahn (elevated railway) station and the Communist police grabbed us," the soldiers said. "All we wanted was to get a beer in the Russian sector. We were not misbehaving."

Four Who Bailed Out Over Alaska Sought

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 26 (AP)—Four persons bailed out of a C-47 airplane when it went into a spin early this morning and searchers immediately began combing the Alaska wilderness for them.

Twenty-eight minutes after the plane went into its spin, the pilot and co-pilot landed it safely at Elmendorf Air Force base. The two crewmen and two passengers, all unidentified, made their jumps between Sheep Mountain and Wasilla. The C-47 was en route from Whitehorse to Elmendorf.

Flying Wing Crash Fatal To Designer

TORRENCE, Calif., Aug. 26 (AP)—The designer and builder of a little experimental aircraft, a rectangular flying wing, crashed to his death in it today.

James P. Martin, 34, took the plane off from the Municipal airport here without authorization, an official said, after several taxi runs on and near the ground.

Three young boys, eyewitnesses, said they saw the craft rise to 100 feet or more, make a right turn, then apparently stall and spin to the ground in an open field.

The plane which Martin had named the "Roadster" was only about 10 feet long and had a wingspread of about 12 feet. It had a 40 horsepower engine and prop in front and a tiny cabin. It was made of sheet aluminum. It had no tail assembly.

Hearst-Davies "Agreement" Is Held Worthless

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26 (AP) — Special administrators of the estate of William Randolph Hearst declared today that a supposed agreement giving the late publisher's longtime friend, Marion Davies, voting control of Hearst enterprises "has no more effect than if it never existed."

Published reports were that Miss Davies, former actress whose real name is Marion Douras, and Hearst signed an agreement Nov. 5, 1950, under which they were named the only two trustees in a voting trust for the stock of the Hearst Corp., holding company for the enterprises.

The reports said that ownership of their stock in the corporation was pooled for voting purposes and that in the event of the death of either, the other should vote the entire stock for his or her lifetime.

The statement today was given in the name of the two special administrators, Randolph Apperson Hearst, one of Hearst's five sons, and Henry S. Mackay, Jr., personal counsel for the publisher. It said:

"Henry S. Mackey, Jr., and Randolph Apperson Hearst, the special administrators of the estate of William Randolph Hearst, state that they have known about the paper dated Nov. 5, 1950—the so-called agreement referred to in today's newspapers.

"According to the report this paper is supposed to make Miss Marion Douras the sole voting trustee in control of all the Hearst property. This so-called agreement dated Nov. 5, 1950, was never executed and for this and many other reasons has no more effect than if it never existed."

'Flying Triangle' Fails

STANSTED, Eng., Aug. 26 (AP) — An experimental jet plane, the Handley Page Company's "Flying Triangle," broke apart in the air tonight over Stansted airport. Its pilot, J. P. Broomfield, was killed instantly when the shattered craft fell.

Harriman, Tito Agree Strength Insures Peace

U. S. Envoy, Yugoslav Chief Talk 5 Hours

BLED, Yugoslavia, Aug. 26 (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's diplomatic troubleshooter, said today that he and Premier Marshal Tito had agreed the surest way to avoid war is to develop military strength in their countries.

Homeward bound after his unsuccessful effort to settle the British-Iranian oil dispute, Harriman expressed his views at a news conference. He had a five-hour talk yesterday with Tito and top-ranking members of the Yugoslav politburo.

Agree On One War Danger

Harriman said that he and Tito were agreed also upon another major point—that "one of the principal dangers of war lies in miscalculation by the Kremlin of reaction of Western countries, especially in the United States, to local aggression."

He expressed hope and belief that the events in Korea may furnish a lesson to Moscow "that practically all the United Nations are opposed to aggression."

Harriman said he and Tito "naturally discussed the Kremlin and its tactics, and Stalin."

"I was struck by the similarity of our views," he said.

He quoted Tito as saying—as he has in several speeches—that an attack upon Yugoslavia could not be localized. Asked whether he agreed, Harriman said: "I did not dispute the statement."

Yugoslavia's Needs Discussed

He said he had talked over with Tito and his top lieutenants Yugoslavia's various needs, both economic and military. He was asked whether Yugoslav officials are satisfied with the amount of military equipment the United States is supplying.

Harriman smiled: "No country is ever satisfied with the amount of military equipment it has."

He declined to say whether the question of Yugoslavia becoming a member of the Atlantic defense system had been raised. He emphasized however, that no conditions on the question of American assistance were involved in the discussions.

Paratrooper Falls To His Death During War Games

FORT BRAGG, N. C., Aug. 26 (AP) —Paratroopers today linked up with the 43rd and 28th Infantry Divisions and prepared a knockout blow against an enemy aggressor which will end the two-week Carolina war games tomorrow.

The U. S. Ninth Air Force dominated the skies as 1,000 paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division jumped today to join the 5,000 who jumped yesterday in Exercise Southern Pine, the biggest training maneuver since World War II.

A paratrooper today became the first man to die in combat. It was the 14th death in the games, the other 13 being from non-combat causes.

The dead paratrooper was Pfc. Salvador J. Camarena, 20, Los Angeles. An airborne officer said his life would have been saved by an emergency parachute if he had 25 more feet in which to fall. The reserve 'chute was beginning to open when he struck the ground after a fall of 1,200 feet. He was a mail clerk with the headquarters company of the 82nd Airborne Division and had some undelivered letters in his pocket when he made his plunge.

Lt. Gen. John Hodge, director of the games, said the 43rd and 28th Divisions, which will join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European defense force in Europe this fall, got "tremendously valuable" field experience.

'Lung' Parachuted To Ill Korean Vet Aboard Troopship

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26 (AP)—A B-17 bomber successfully parachuted a portable chest respirator today to the aid of a critically-ill Korean war veteran aboard a troopship about 1,000 miles off the California coast.

The respirator, in two parachuted packages, fell in the turbulent waters and was picked up by crew members in lifeboats.

Coast Guard Pilot Lt. Robert L. Lawlis said the homeward-bound transport Aiken Victory identified the stricken soldier as Cpl. James A. Williams, 22, Brooklyn, N. Y.

He said the ship radioed that the 125-pound "lung" was received in good working order, but that Williams' condition was still extremely critical.

Radio messages from the ship last night said Williams had suffered an attack of either polio or meningitis.

Senators Plan To Hit Gamblers In Pocketbooks

Crime Probers Write Blistering Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Senators working on different fronts are aiming heavy blows at overlords and their subjects in the big time gambling world.

The Senate Crime Investigating Committee already has charged that organized gambling is the source of vicious interstate and international crime, including the illegal narcotics traffic.

The committee, headed by Sen. O'Conor (D-Md), is writing another blistering report—its final one—calling for a federal crackdown on underworld figures. The report is expected to contain some pointed comment on certain local law enforcement. It has until midnight Friday to complete it.

Pocketbooks Are Target

On another front, the Senate Finance Committee, using a double-barreled section of the huge new tax bill, is taking careful aim at gamblers' pocketbooks.

This is a section to (a) levy heavy new taxes on the gambler's rich harvest and (b) require him to file detailed tax forms.

The Finance Committee, headed by Sen. George (D-Ga), has held quiet closed door huddles with federal authorities concerning fine points of the section, but is silent on whether it plans even tougher language than the House proposed.

Touchy Subject

The section is a touchy one. The House Ways and Means Committee itself pointed out in an official report that federal taxes on wagering sometimes come under fire on grounds that "Congress "is in effect sanctioning" an underworld activity.

The House committee rejected that argument, however. It declared in a report to the House that "since its inception the federal income tax has applied without distinction to income from illegal as well as legal activities."

Doctors Say New Drug Checks Meningitis

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) — The antibiotic terramycin brings rapid recoveries from meningitis, two physicians report in the Journal of Pediatrics.

Meningitis is an inflammatory disease of membranes of the brain or spinal cord, or both.

The drug brought complete recovery in 14 cases or cerebro-spinal meningitis, sometimes within six days, said Drs. Archibald L. Hoyne and Emmanuel R. Riff of Cook County Contagious Disease Hospital.

This form of meningitis often is epidemic among children. Until sulfa drugs were developed, about half the victims always died.

Report Planes Over Kaesong, Coastal Cities

No Official Reply Made To Ridgway

TOKYO, Monday, Aug. 27 (AP)—Red China accused the United States today of new land and air violations of the neutral Korean truce talk zone and charged that American warplanes flew over the Shanghai area, Tsingtao and other Chinese coastal cities.

Peiping radio said in an English language broadcast, "the frenzied aggressive actions of the American Air Force toward China are obviously in coordination with its murderous actions in Kaesong (the truce talk site).

"It is now still more apparent that the American government deliberately wants to put an end to the peace negotiations with war."

There was no immediate comment from Allied headquarters.

The sudden barrage of charges broadcast by the Peiping radio climaxed a flood of propaganda attacks saying it was "inconceivable" that the Korean armistice talks could be resumed unless the United States revised its "contemptible and savage attitude."

Official Red Reply Awaited

The Reds themselves broke off the talks Aug. 23, but accused the United States of scheming to wreck the armistice effort.

They still, however, had not given any official reply to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's message of Saturday. In it he called their earlier series of charges "malicious falsehoods," but expressed willingness to resume the truce talks at any time.

The Peiping radio, which serves as the major Communist mouthpiece, quoted a dispatch from a Chinese Red news agency correspondent in Kaesong as saying 21 American and South Korean "plainclothesmen" Saturday morning invaded the Panmunjom zone near Kaesong and tried to "murder" Red military police. The Red correspondent said they were "repulsed before attaining their objective."

Later the same day, he said, seven American planes flew over Kaesong.

No Attacks Charged

In another dispatch datelined Peiping, the radio said American planes flew over the coastal areas of Shantung, Chekiang and Kiangsu Provinces of the China mainland last Thursday and Saturday.

It detailed several alleged incursions by one to five planes but did not charge any attacks. The flights, it said, were further intended to disrupt the Korean armistice conferences.

The Reds broke off the talks Thursday, they said, because an Allied plane had bombed and strafed Kaesong the night of Aug. 22 in an attempt to "murder" the Red negotiators.

This charge Gen. Ridgway branded a lie and a frameup from the start.

Thomas Man Killed In Auto Mishap

First Tucker County Road Death Since '49

THOMAS, W. Va. — The first traffic death in Tucker County since 1949 claimed the life of a 33-year-old Thomas man Saturday night about 7 o'clock when the car he was riding crashed on a mountain road between Thomas and Parsons.

Tucker County Hospital, Parsons, reported yesterday that William Flanagan was still in serious condition. Mrs. Flanagan's condition is not serious but she must remain in the hospital for treatment.

Thayer is survived by his parents, a brother, Stuart Thayer, of Thomas; and two sisters, Mrs. A. N. Haslett, Fairmont, and Mrs. Charles L. Coffman, Baltimore, Md. He was born August 13, 1918, and was a member of Blue Ridge Post No. 22, American Legion of Thomas.

Keyser's Campaign On Speeders Continues

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 26—The city police drive on automobile speeders has improved conditions here, according to Chief of Police Claude Martin.

The campaign was started early in August. Since that time 14 drivers have been arrested and each given the minimum fine of $10.

The police are not giving up the drive, as Mayor Chester J. Compton made it clear that it is to be continued. The offenses have been on South Main, West Piedmont, St. Cloud and South Mineral streets, each of these thoroughfares being long and straight.

STEPS TO BRIDGE — This is the stairway leading from the deck sidewalk of the new Potomac River bridge between McCoole and Keyser, W. Va., to the sidewalk on Keyser's Maple Avenue. The stairway includes 68 steps and four landings. The steps are metal and will provide an outlet for citizens of the North End of Keyser to get to the business area at times when the Main Street railroad crossing will be blocked by trains. Residents say this customarily occurs from four to six times daily and for periods of from 40 minutes to better than an hour. An idea of the height of the bridge can be gained by noting the size of the man and woman on the sidewalk near the steps. These steps now are closed to pedestrian travel as are the ends of the bridge to prevent persons from walking there. Previously the bridge had been open to citizens to walk on the structure so they could see what it is like. However, some persons spoiled this privilege for the general public by tossing objects from the bridge to the street below and by breaking the reenforcement metal for concrete railing posts and throwing them onto roofs and the street. The sidewalk barricade will not be removed until the bridge is ready to be turned over to the public as a thoroughfare.

Vandalism Case Hearing Set

Defense attorneys for four Westernport youths charged with a series of fires, explosions and other acts of vandalism on mining property said that Tuesday, September 4, has been tentatively set as the date for a hearing in the cases.

The attorneys also said they would ask that the cases be heard before a jury. This brings up the question of a jury panel. Court attaches say the panel of petit jurors from the last term of court will likely be recalled.

The four accused youths are to be tried on information presented to the court by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher. The defense lawyers had asked that this procedure be followed.

Associate Judge George Henderson will preside at the hearings due to Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris being disqualified as his brother Lewis Harris, is one of the property owners whose places were damaged during the various incidents of the past year or so.

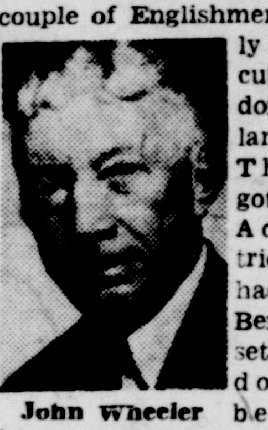
The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

The Hard-Luck Baroness

Charles Lindberg was the first to fly the Atlantic alone from New York to Paris nonstop in 1927. A couple of Englishmen had previously taken a short cut from Labrador or Newfoundland to Ireland. Then everybody got into the act. Admiral Byrd tried it, and, if it hadn't been for Bernt Balchen setting the ship down on the beach on the fringe of France, would never have made it. Phil Payne, managing editor of the New York Mirror, at the last minute jumped aboard the Old Glory, heading for Rome, and nothing further was heard of the plane or crew.



John Wheeler

The next year it became co-educational, and the first woman to make it, according to my recollection, was Amelia Earhart, before she studied flying, herself, and became a first-class pilot in her own right. She was irritated because some ungallant correspondent reported she rode along "like a sack of potatoes" which would get just as wet as the guy steering the craft if it fell into the drink. She was later lost without a trace on an attempted flight around the world.

The Big Brass of the New York Times foregather in a private lunch room in the air-conditioned building every day and usually have a distinguished guest whose brain they try to pick. Occasionally I have been invited to come along as a kabitzer, and this happened one noon when women got into the act of flying the Atlantic. I was introduced to a beautiful Swedish lady named Baroness von Blixen Finecke, who expected to take off as a lone passenger in a few days in an attempt to cross the ocean without touching it to her homeland. The reason for my presence was to discuss the purchase of the story of her experiences. I did a double take and thought she should be starred by Ziegfield instead of risking her pretty neck in such a hazardous undertaking.

"Why," I asked, "do you want to try this? Leave it to some homelier woman."

She smiled.

"Do you really wish to know?" she asked.

"I suppose it is the publicity," I replied, "but you tell me."

"All right, I will," she said. "My husband is a big-game hunter in Africa, and he takes out groups to chase lions, tigers, and elephants. Ernest Hemingway made one safari with him. I am so damned bored listening to all the chatter around our place about the animals slain and the boasting of the suckers I thought I would try something else.' As you can judge, she spoke excellent English.

I questioned her no further, for I agreed with her. In fact I have been reading a newspaper series recently by an intrepid Nimrod which made me seek a remedy for nausea that I was afraid might develop into chronic stomach ulcers. The trouble is the "sportsman" with a white hunter at his elbow always survives to write of his narrow escapes and show his pictures. It reminds me of a remark Bruce Barton made when we returned from Europe after an extended tour. He called up almost as soon as we docked and said.

"Esther and I want to come to see you tonight, before you get a chance to develop your pictures."

To return to our heroine, she went to dinner with me one night so we could complete the details of the deal, and we visited the Stork Club where we met James Mollison, the English pilot who would fly the Atlantic in a dinner coat at the drop of a champagne glass and once did. Bugs Baer, always interested in beauty and aviation in the order named, joined us. I explained the purpose of the meeting, and he was so impressed by her he remarked,

"Why dont' you change the routine and fly the Atlantic upside down?"

Actually he didn't believe she had any intention of trying it, and, as it turned out, she didn't take off, for the pilot, the cad, sneaked away one morning and left her, claiming he was afraid to carry the extra weight, although she didn't weigh more than 115 pounds soaking wet, if I am any judge. He fell into the ocean about 18 miles off the coast of Ireland having run out of gasoline and was pulled out by some fishermen.

So the Baroness was left on the beach, and became very sad. She finally went home and I had a cable she was planning a trip around the world in a racing car, offering reports of her adventures on the road. The next I heard she was killed in an accident in Iraq. She should have gone to Hollywood, gotten a job in the movies, and married Ali Khan.

"I've got a date..."

There's more to giving good telephone service than working high on a pole or manning a switchboard. Good telephone service goes much deeper than that. It's a spirit, a tradition.

The people who make telephone service good are well-trained, efficient, conscientious employees. But more than that, they are alert, active citizens, good people to have around in times like these.

Telephone people have always given of their time and talents in community affairs and in church work. Today, because of their special training, they are busy with the problems of Civil Defense, instructing in first aid, serving in air-raid warning centers.

Yes, telephone people "have a date"—wherever there's a citizen's job to be done.

Good telephone service, good telephone people—the nation can be thankful for both.

Farouk And A Free Press

The treatment in the U.S. press of King Farouk of Egypt may inspire an official protest from the government of that country. Life magazine has been banned in Egypt since April, 1950, because of its coverage of Farouk's activities. Time and Newsweek were removed from pubic sale in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan area in January of that year as the result of stories about the King's romance with 16-year-old Marriman Sadek.

About all that the State Department can do after receiving protests on U. S. press coverage of the activities of foreign rulers is to point out that the Washington government is not responsible for the quality nor the purposes of the American press. In the past the Department has indicated that a suitable means of redress might be suit for libel.

This was true as long as 160 years ago, when a prosecutor said of Cobbett, publisher of a Philadelphia newspaper, in 1791: "He has ransacked our language for terms of unsatisfactory reputation and for the basest accusations against every ruler and distinguished character in France and Spain with whom we chance to have any intercourse . . . in brief, he braves his recognizance and the law." But the grand jury refused to indict.

Perhaps the best statement of the State Department position is recorded in a letter from the Chief of Western European Affairs to Poland in 1933: "It is always a cause for regret when private publishers print articles which may be offensive to the government or people of a friendly nation, but the publication of articles containing allegations or expressions of opinion, however unwarranted they may be, is not under our Constitution subject to executive control. This applies to articles reflecting on the Government of the United States or its officials as well as to those which refer to foreign governments or officials."

A proposed Convention of Freedom of Information in the United Nations would bar from the press anything which a government considers likely to "injure the feelings of a national of a state." Carroll Binder, editor of the Minneapolis Tribune editorial page and U. S. delegate to the committee drafting the proposed treaty, has consistently fought its restrictive terms.

Opposing a "considerable section of the American press" which proposes non-participation in further UN debate on the subject, Binder argues for full support internationally of the American view: "A nation which believes in its free institutions and is determined to preserve them must put up a fight for them whenever they are under attack."

American newspapers and magazines have been censored or withdrawn from sale for printing the facts of the romance between Mrs. Wallis W. Simpson and the then King of England, for opinion and reportage on the governments of Hitler's Germany, Mussolini's Italy, Stalin's Russia, and Peron's Argentina. Whenever formal protest has been made, the State Department has replied that this government is not responsible for its press. In 1937 the State Department had to inform the government of Germany that remarks of Mayor La Guardia of New York should not be interpreted as setting forth the "attitude" of the U. S. government.

The RFC's Slimy Trail

Upon reading both the majority and minority reports of the investigation into the affairs of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, most persons will wonder why the Democratic members tried so hard to keep the Republicans from making public their own findings. Nor will they discover much excuse for Chairman Fulbright's postscript in which regrets are expressed that the minority statement has to be "printed at public expense."

The two reports, while using different language, are as one in voicing the conclusion that the RFC had fallen prey to "an influence ring with White House contacts." Both say the charges, which President Truman called "asinine," were fully substantiated. Both find it was an "accepted practice" among borrowers to seek entree to the RFC by means of a Democratic National Committee introduction.

What causes Mr. Fulbright to call the minority report "scurrilous" is undoubtedly the direct personal reference made therein to the President and Chairman Boyle of the Democratic National Committee.

These two leaders, the Republicans declare, have "transferred Pendergast politics to the national level" and as a result of their activities morality in government "had declined to the lowest ebb in the nation's history."

If it is this interpretation of affairs to which the majority members object, they are unduly sensitive and altogether too anxious to protect Mr. Truman's reputation. Those Americans who are concerned by revelations of the Administration's standards of ethics will not consider the minority report "scurrilous" or or even immoderate.

Unclean Hands At Yalta

The eight Republican MacArthur investigators who term Yalta a "great tragedy" are right. The secret protocol on China is an ugly chapter in American diplomatic history. It was at Yalta that the United States sacrificed principle for expediency, and this shameful fact should not be overlooked in the controversy over whether (or by whom) the U. S. was betrayed.

In the Atlantic Charter, later adhered to in principle by Russia, the signatories agreed to seek no territorial aggrandizement from the war. Yalta violated that by giving Russia the other half of Sakhalin Island and the Kuriles. A promise publicly made to the people of the world was secretly violated.

In the Cairo declaration, moreover, Roosevelt and Churchill had proposed complete restoration of Chinese sovereignty over Manchuria. But at Yalta they also dishonored that promise by giving Russia special privileges in Manchuria, including what amounted to half ownership of two railroads. This act was also a betrayal of America's traditional Open Door policy.

That this deal gave away the territorial rights of this country's ally, China, without China's knowledge or consent is another of its shocking aspects. The Yalta protocol stated that Roosevelt would undertake to make Chiang give Russia what FDR promised. This is not the sort of role in the world that is consistent either with American principles or the national interest.

The world picture might be no less dark today if Roosevelt had made no such deal at Yalta, but American hands would be cleaner.

How To Keep Well

Living With Our Viruses

Influenza and polio viruses have been battling man for centuries. These microorganisms have dealt many lethal blows and have been responsible for numerous fearful epidemics. However, they never have fought an all-out war against humans because in such a conflict the organisms would perish also if they killed off their meal ticket.

Nature has not made the battle as one-sided as it may seem. The human race is endowed with a unique protective device known as "immunity." The more we are bombarded by viruses, the more calloused we become. Whenever a parasite lives with us long enough this defensive mechanism goes into operation and the process may be likened to the adage, "familiarity breeds contempt." Both the parasite and the human host sign a truce whereby the germs are permitted to survive if they keep their place and cause a minimum of trouble. The common cold is somewhat of an exception because the immunity produced by one bout with the virus is so short-lived.

In the old yellow fever days in the West Indies the natives appeared unaffected by this malady. They were bitten by mosquitoes and undoubtedly were infected with the yellow fever virus, yet the diesase never assumed serious proportions among the inhabitants. But when the Europeans arrived the parasites found strange bedfellows and the white men died like flies. The same condition arose among the Indians in this country when they came up against the smallpox virus brought in by the whites. The affliction spread like wild fire among the red men and killed them instead of keeping them alive but poxed.

Polio is not a new ailment, so far as we are concerned. We dread it, yet there is considerable evidence to show that most of us are immune or partly immune. When a child in a large family comes down with a paralyzing attack of the disease, examination of the remainder of the family may disclose that the intestinal tract of all the brothers and sisters carries the causative virus for a week or two. Those with partial immunity develop subclinical polio, the only manifestations of which are cold and sore throat. The completely immune go about as tho the organism had not been contacted.

Another example of immunity and the tolerable equilibrium between man and virus was cited by F. M. Burnet in a recent issue of Scientific American. He contrasted epidemics of polio that occurred on the islands of Malta and St. Helena. Both were serious but in the Malta outbreak 90 per cent of the paralyzed patients were under 5 years of age, whereas in the St. Helena epidemic the older age group was hit along with the youngsters. The clew as to why this happened lies in the polio history of the two places. On Malta, a few cases have been reported every year, indicating that the disease was rife over a long period of time and that viruses of low virulence had been disseminated among the population for many years. In 1943 a more virulent polio virus appeared and the older children and adults who had a certain degree of immunity withstood the onslaught. Infants had not acquired this protection and were hard hit.

The polio background of St. Helena was different; there had been no record of the diesase for over 20 years. This was virgin soil for the virus and the new invaders struck with paralyzing effect in all age groups.

HEART AND HOUSEWORK

Mrs. T. writes: Should a woman with enlarged rheumatic heart and leakage be expected to do all her housework?

REPLY

This depends upon how much work there is to do. It is a good policy to stop short of symptoms such as breathlessness and palpitation.

ANGINA

P. L. writes: Are angina and angina pectoris the same?

REPLY

The word angina has two meanings: sore throat from any cause and a cramplike pain. Ludwig's angina and Vincent's angina are examples of the first meaning. When the word is used to indicate chest pain, the physician usually refers to angina pectoris.

GALL BLADDER AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. T. writes: Is it risky for a woman to become pregnant who gets attacks of gall bladder when she eats improperly or becomes excited?

REPLY

Not risky but pregnancy will be an added burden on the system and may have the same effect as excitement or dietary indiscretions.

POLIO AND HEREDITY

F. A. writes: Does heridity play a part in polio?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Children Are Destroyed By The Narcotic Peddler; Narcotic Traffic Is Intricate And Skillful; Bureau Of Narcotics Is A Model Agency

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Harry J. Anslinger, the Treasury Department's commissioner of narcotics and the U. S. representative on the United Nations Narcotic Commission. In international circles Mr. Anslinger is regarded as the greatest living authority on the world narcotics traffic. On June 30, 1951, in the U. S. House of Representatives, Congressman Gordon Canfield said: "The nations of the world regard him as the world's No. 1 authority on the subject.")

WASHINGTON — The narcotic peddler does not kidnap your children; he destroys them.

In extreme distress, parents brought their 16-year-old boy to my office. The lad quivered like the leaves of the aspen. He was suffering the dreaded withdrawal syndrome of drug addiction. He was one of those who use bravado to gain admission to the delinquent gang.

"Tell me where you get heroin," I said. "I will send you to the hospital for a cure."

We used an undercover agent to buy from the "pusher," who led us to the wholesale peddler. Then by progressive steps we graduated to one of the big traffickers who controlled a nation-wide syndicate. We trapped him like a rat. It took men, endless patience, long hours of vigilant surveillance, and infinite detailed corroboration. Now, where did he get his supply? from a country which signed the Geneva Convention of 1931 to limit the manufacture of narcotic drugs to medical needs, and then estimated its heroin consumption at 10 times its actual medical needs. Even with elaborate reporting and checking by international bodies, the padded estimates escaped the attention of the United Nations control machinery.

We first picked up the international leakage when the Los Angeles county sheriff turned over to us a peddler with ten ounces of heroin. He got it from a ship's steward traveling between New York and Trieste. In Trieste, the Allied military authorities had inadvertently repealed narcotic laws. Diversion in Italy provided a ready source, with the connivance of the Mafia. Wheels within whels. The narcotic traffic is intricately intrlaced and skillfully interwoven.

We have 195 agents; less than two per cent of the federal enforcement personnel. Thse men account for 10 per cent of the fedral prison population, and their convictions average 95 per cent. Our force is about as large as that of the police department in a place the size of Tampa, Florida.

The whole world regards the U.S. Treasury Departments' Bureau of Narcotics as a model. The work is dangerous, nerve racking, round-the-clock, yet there is something which makes crusaders of all who engage in it. They respond beyond the call of duty.

Our enemy is artfully cunning. The seller is satisfied, and the user won't tell. There are no complaints as in crimes like robberies and kidnapping. Not one witnss before the Senate Crime Committee would reveal his source of supply, through fear of consequences. We work completely undercover, and must come up with the corpus delicti (evidence)at the conclusion of the investigation. We are severely handicapped by court decisions relating to search and seizure, and must rely on state prosecution in many cases.

We need a law which will put the peddler away longer than 16 months. The House of Reprsentatives passed such a bill. It is pending in the Senate. These cruel exploiters deserve greater punishment. If we had 1,000 agents—without a mandatory sentence law—we would still be on a treadmill; a merry-go-round (no reference to this column). Recently a notorious trafficker with five narcotic-law convictions received a suspended sentence.

Harold Normandale is an addict with over 100 arrests, including one for rape, murder, and many for narcotics. He peddled narcotics to take care of his own addiction. This type creates addicts. There are thousands like him. They have no sense of moral responsibility. They would, without hesitation, shoot heroin into the radiant veins of your 15-year-old daughter, and send her into prostitution to get money for the heroin they pump into her innocent body, yet such peddlers get off with suspended sentences.

The addict must be quarantined in the city hospitals. Baltimore has the distinction of being the first city to set aside 10 beds for the disintoxication and rehabilitation of drug addicts.

Limitation on manufacture of narcotic drugs and control of international distribution have been accomplished through eight treaties. The United Nations is now working on a plan to limit opium production to world medical needs. This is the goal I have been working for at every international conference I have attended since 1931. Such an agreement would be the greatest achievement so far toward suppressing the abuse of narcotic drugs throughout the world.

Present sources of our illicit narcotics are Italy, Iran, Turkey, India, Greece, Communist China, and Mexico. Mexico is doing good work with airplanes and troops to suppress illicit opium cultivation. Other source countries please take note.

Reports of large-scale drug addiction throughout the world reflect a post-war phenomenon, and a jittery world.

About 1947 we had the traffic under control. Prison wardens reporten an absence of addicted criminals. The population of our Lexington Narcotic Hospital had fallen to such an extent that a move was under way to abolish the hospital. I urged all to stand by and to prepare. We could feel it coming here and abroad. Warnings went unheeded. In the past two years it rolled in like an engulfing surf.

Finality in dealing with the international traffic must be reached. Its continued existence and evergreen activity is a sad rflection on the world's lack of joint determination to be done with these plague carriers whose god is auri sacra fames (the accursed thirst for gold).

Where To Work

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLOUCESTER, Mass., August 26—Many young people are now wondering where it is best for them to get a job and settle down. This year they have a choice of several jobs and can pick and choose.

Avoid Big Cities

I advise against taking a position in one of the biggest cities; certainly not in one of the 12 cities which Washington says is liable to be bombed in case of World War III. As for settling down and raising a family in one of these 12 cities, this seems almost suicidal to me. Here is the list: New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Baltimore, St. Louis, Boston, Pittsburgh, Washington, D. C., and San Francisco.

A study of the latest atomic bomb information leads me to believe that about 60 miles from the center of such a big city is the safest location. You will then be both free from bombing and free from the radio waves; also you should not suffer from the refugee problem which could be very serious to the suburbs of these 12 big cities.

Small Cities Look Good

Not only are small cities better places to bring up a family, but they offer the best long-run business opportunities. Before the present day of high taxes and high living expenses the big city offered attractions to the young man who wanted to make money quickly; but not now.

Today, smaller places offer the best long-run, money-making opportunities. Real estate in the above cities is now at top prices; but real estate in most smaller cities could double in price. Some day the manufacturers who are now in these 12 cities will flock to the smaller places. The time to buy small city property is now before the rush begins.

When To Buy Or Sell

The time to buy most property is when no one wants it. Such opportunities always exist somewhere—but few persons are wise enough to take advantage of such bargains. The time to sell property is when someone else wants it badly. But there again most people will not sell then. The average man will not use his brain or else lacks courage when he buys or sells.

Here is another thought: Buy land by the acre just outside any good city and later sell it by the foot. But buy it on the right side of that city—that is, in the direction where the community is growing. Every city—large and small—is growing best in some one direction where the best houses are being built.

Better For Small Businessmen

A small city is sure to offer opportunities for young businessmen. "A small toad is better off in a small puddle"—he is apt to get drowned in a big pool. In the same way a small businessman may get drowned easily in some big city where he may be forced to pay tribute to racketeers or be bled by crime gangs.

In the smaller cities any young man of good character can join the local chamber of commerce and one of the service clubs and work up to be a director thereof. This he cannot do in one of the above 12 cities. He can buy stock in a local bank of smaller cities and perhaps become a director thereof. His wife can become active in the women's club and the Parent-Teacher Association.

Have A Church Affiliation

I never feel so lonesome as when I go into a big city church. It is not the fault of the church; I do not blame the members for having no interest in me. The same applies to the Y.M.C.A.'s of the biggest cities. But a small city church always makes me feel at home.

Certainly no one should attend any church just to help himself in business or even to get acquaintances. Yet, we all must have some social life and it is best to find our friends at a church rather than anywhere else. That is where I found the girl with whom I have lived 50 happy years! Moreover, this was in Gloucester, Massachusetts, where I am writing this column. It was then a small city, while Wellesley, where I started in business, had, at that time, only about 5,000 inhabitants

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Corliss Lamont On Russia

In a pamphlet which is being circulated, Dr. Corliss Lamont of Columbia University, son of the late senior partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., makes this point:

". . . Morally Communist parties are on an obviously higher plane than Fascist parties in that they have such aims as (1) complete racial democracy and non-discrimination; (2) full equality between the sexes; (3) educational and cultural opportunity for everyone; (4) a planned socialist economy of abundance on behalf of all the people; (5) the attainment of political democracy when the transitional need for dictatorship has passed; (6) the teaching of an inclusive and integrated philosophy of life; and (7) the achievement of international peace. In spite of the colossal blunder and act of international immorality on the part of the Communist-controlled North Koreans in committing aggression against South Korea, I am convinced that Communist parties are on the whole desirous of seeing world peace established.

"In the above seven points I have not tried to cover all the basic differences between the Communists and Fascists; but my summary indicates the relevance of the remark once made by John Strachey, now minister of war in the British Labor Government, namely that communism and fascism are like two express trains going in opposite directions. The notion that communism and fascism are fundamentally the same is a dangerous untruth . . ."

Dr. Lamont has for many years been one of the principal apologists in the United States for Soviet Russia and its creed. He has long been associated with the national council of American-Soviet friendship. That per se does not make of him a Communist or even a Communist sympathizer. He calls himself a Socialist and once wrote a book entitled, "You Might Like Socialism."

The quotation above contains several falsehoods by implication. For instance, any statement that Soviet Russia practices racial democracy is false on the record. As regards the Jews, the Volga Germans and several Asiatic races, Soviet Russia has practiced genocide with a completeness unparalleled even by Hitler. On this subject, the reader might find it advantageous to read Professor Solomon M. Schwarz's book, "The Jews in the Soviet Union," published by the Syracuse University Press. The elimination of the middle class and the intellectuals from such countres as Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Lithuania, Latvia and even the Ukraine and their exile to Siberia, the Karakum Desert and Turkestan is one of the most horrible stories in history.

When Dr. Lamont suggests that Communist parties practice non-discrimination, he does not, of course, include the persecutions of religions, which, to most human beings, is as offensive as genocide against races. All religions, Roman Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, with the single exception of the Orthodox church, have been obliterated. Some worship is permitted, but religious groups must have schools to teach their philosophy, to train their clergy and to prepare their children. These are forbidden, as is the use of such languages as Hebrew and Latin.

The Orthodox church is a political arm of the Soviet government, directly controlled by the state and employed to assist in the extirpation of other religious groups. It is under law, political control.

It is interesting to note that wherever a Communist party takes over a country, it fights religion and imprisons and sometimes kills professional clergymen. This pattern has recently been adopted in Soviet China.

Dr. Lamont says that in Communist countries there is "educational and cultural opportunity for everyone." As one long associated with a leading American university, Dr. Lamont ought to be ashamed to call a system which provides for a state determination of what men may know and believe, education. Surely, there can be no "free inquiry," which is the essence of education, when the oligarchy can say what is right about philosophy, history, biology, art, and every avenue of thought, research nad expression.

What about the Lysenko controversy in which the government decided what is true about genetics? What about Zhdanov deciding what music should be written by Shostakovich, Prokofieff and Khatchaturian? What about the elimination of all so-called "cosmopolitans" from the writing profession?

Surely, Dr. Lamont, who has been an advocate in the cause of Russia, has not been driven from Columbia University, nor has he been forbidden to write in favor of our enemy and in opposition to the stated policy of his government. Does he know and can he name one anti-Marxist who teaches in any university in Soviet Russia?

Each one of Dr. Lamont's points, except full equality of the sexes, can be demonstrated to be special pleading. The question arises: To what end is this done?

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Thunderheads

WASHINGTON

The storm signals are out again all the way around the world, from Kaesong to Tehran. In the long view, moreover, even breakdown of the Korean truce talks is quite likely to prove less grave than breakdown of the oil talks between the British and Iranians.

The British government is reported to hope that W. Averell Harriman may still manage to patch up some sort of solution of the oil problem. The American policy-markers' feelings about Harriman are the feelings of a busted horseplayer about an extreme long shot that may just possibly save the day by beating the favorite in the eighth race. But since miracles cannot be relied on to occur with any regularity, the coarse facts of the Iranian situation had better be faced.

First, if the government of Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh cannot be persuaded to accept a sensible oil settlement, the next step will probably be an effort to make a more rational government in Tehran. Delay, self-delusion and other follies have caused the position in Tehran to deteriorate so much that this effort must now be made the worst imaginable auspices. The British can no longer usefully participate. Thus the whole onus of what will necessarily seem a rather crude intervention in Iranian politics will have to be borne by the Americans. There will be serious disorders, perhaps bloodshed. And the effort may well fail.

May Move Troops

Second, if it proves impossible to get an oil settlement by replacing Dr. Mossadegh, the British decision to move troops to occupy Abadan Island (the site of the vital oil refinery) will come into operation. One of these reporters predicted long since that the British would be forced to this decision, if only as an object lesson to the Egyptians and others who are longing to imitate the Iranian experiments with twisting the lion's tail. In the lull secured by Averell Harriman's efforts, it leaked out in London that the decision to move troops if need be had actually been taken by Prime Minister Attlee and Winston Churchill in bi-partisan consultation.

Third, if the British move their parachute brigade from Cyprus to Abadan, there will certainly be hard fighting, at least for a while, although the fact that Abadan is an island should prevent a recurrence of the Korean pattern.

Fourth, the Soviets are quite likely to take a British troop movement into South Iran as a pretext for sending Russian troops into North Iran under the vague clauses of the 1921 treaty. Or if the Soviets hold their hands, the Iranian nationalists are even more likely to be replaced at Tehran by the Communist Tudeh party—for the snaky existing structure of the Iranian government can hardly hold together after the shock of a British landing in the south. Meanwhile, the rest of the Middle East will be plunged into sympathetic convulsions.

Fifth, and finally, whether we like it or not, America is going to have to stick by Britain in this hideous business in the UN and elsewhere. American strategic-political interests in the Middle East are quite as important as British economic interests. In short, we are in the mess too, up to our necks.

Harriman Helped

Under the circumstances, prayers for Averell Harriman's success seem to be in order. So are bouquets for what he has accomplished already, for it must be understood that when the Harriman mission to Iran was first despairingly proposed by Assistant Secretary of State George McGhee, the position seemed even more hopeless than it does today. Most of the American policy makers actually opposed the project at that time, on the ground, so to speak, that there was no use throwing a good Harriman after bad diplomacy.

For years the British had done everything possible to produce an Iranian crisis. Then when the crisis began with the assassination of Gen. Razmara, we on the one hand did everything possible to make the British neurotic and irritable, from indulging in "I told you so" to talking behind their backs. And on the other hand, we also did everything possible to make the Iranians irrational and intractable, from giving the impression that we would prevent the British from sending troops, to beseeching Dr. Mossadegh to accept American economic aid as a great favor to us.

In the resulting circumstances, it was no wonder that Harriman was checked, as he now has been, in his effort to bring the British and Iranians together. The wonder is, rather, that he managed to achieve even a short interlude of reasonable discussion of the oil problem. It was a little short of miraculous for Harriman to accomplish anything at all. Perhaps, therefore, we may hope that he will now accomplish the larger miracle of finding a way to avoid the chain of consequences outlined above.

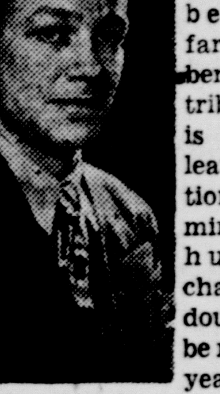
Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Lottery

"The Lottery," a short story that first appeared in "The New Yorker," is one of those rare haunting pieces that has stuck to the ribs of everyone who has read it. It's a story in which time and geography are irrelevent. The people in it could be midwestern farmers or members of the lost tribe of Israel. It is a story that leaves large questions in your mind and, unless human nature changes which is doubtful, it could be read a hundred years from now with the same literary satisfaction and moral dissatisfaction.



John Crosby

In a very few hundred words Miss Shirley Jackson appears to be attacking tribal taboos from earliest times, intolerance of all sorts, and the persistance of human practices which are universally condemned by all reasonable members of the community. You can, in fact, read almost anything into this story, and almost everything has been read into it.

● — ● — ●

The original story, a little masterpiece of abbreviation, unwound slowly, leaving the reader with a mounting sense of terror and puzzlement. A lottery was to be held. Every member of the community participated. Everyone dreaded it. Nothing could be done about it simply because nothing ever had been done about it. There were murmurs of revolt that were quickly stifled by the overwhelming pressure of prior custom. All this time the reader is left entirely in the dark as to the nature of the lottery and especially the award to be made to the winner of the lottery. Only in the last few sentences does Miss Jackson reveal that the holder of the black ballot is to be stoned to death.

Translating this bitter fable of humanity—you can hardly call it inhumanity because only humans behave this way — to television was a a task, I should have predicted, quite out of reach of anyone in the business today. But it has been done twice—once last summer, once last week—with enormous success by a young producer-director named Albert McCleary. Television, of course, is a much more explicit medium than the short story, but it is McCleary's theory, a good one, that it doesn't have to be anywhere near as, explicit as a movie screen or a stage set.

Using no scenery and only the minimum of props, McCleery concentrates his cameras on faces, people who are as carefully arranged and as meaningful as ballet. It has long been my notion that television direction at its best is closer to still photography than to movies. McCleery in "The Lottery" demonstrates that a television screen can be as curt, concise and powerful as a line drawing by Toulouse-Lautrec. Some of his camera shots were just fragments of faces, sculpturesque in composition, poetic in their intensity of feeling. Acting takes second place — well, fourth place — to the director, the cameramen and the man who controls the lights.

What McCleery is doing is restoring in some measure radio's inherent virtue as a spur to the imagination of the audience. Where most television stifles and stupifies imagination, McCleery demands it of his audience, requires of them something besides passive absorption. In fact, my only objection to this fine television program was a little sermon tacked on to the end of it about the nature of superstition. Miss Jackson's story left the reader do his own sermonizing and, by such wise omission, it took in much more territory than the brief spasm of righteousness prose at the end of the television show.

● — ● — ●

"The Lottery" was the last of a series of eight special summer shows occupying the Fireside Theater slot on NBC (9:30 p. m. EDT Tuesdays.) Tomorrow night Fireside Theater will return to its regular bill of fare, films especially made for television in Hollywood. I imagine they'll be as depressing as ever. Hollywood — at least that part of it dedicated to TV — has yet to learn anything at all about television direction, about the size of a home screen, about the emotional atmosphere of a home group, about the depth and power of a human head, about the significance of small suggestive detail, about the mounting of mood and atmosphere by subtle lighting or about any of the techniques so splendidly demonstrated by Mr. McCleery in "The Lottery."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO THROW-INS NEEDED

MAKING one lead-throwing end-play on a deal, in order to gain a trick, is usually considered quite a nice feat. But in situations which arise once in many hundreds of hands, it is necessary to execute two throw-in plays as a means of making the contract. If you ever put over such a combination of plays, it is pretty likely to be due to having your eyes open and reading the cards clearly.

West did a careful job of playing for that tenuous contract, with all of the four suits threatening its success, after North led the club Q. He took that with the club A, laid down the diamond A and quickly noted the hopelessness of that suit, then scored the heart A, finessed the J and scored the K. Feeling almost sure of the complete count of both defenders' hands now, he led the club 7 to the K and brought forth the 8 to North's 10, meanwhile discarding the spade 6.

North was able to take in his club J, but had nothing left except spades, as West had reckoned. So throw-in number one brought a return of the spade J to the Q to be worth one trick to the declarer. To eliminate the chance that North might have the outstanding heart—though it was a million to one he would have won the earlier finesse if he did—and that South might have a spade left, West laid down the spade A, drawing a diamond discard from South.

Now came the second throw-in, a sure thing to succeed, the heart 7 being led to the Q. South, with only the diamond K-J remaining, had to lead the suit while dummy held the Q-9. That defender scored the K, for his side's fourth trick, then had to give the game trick to the Q. By wily management, West had limited each defender to two tricks.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26 (INS) — Marlene Dietrich arrives next week to co-star with Clifton Webb in "The Love M,"—and if this isn't the teaming of the year—it will do until they put Jimmy Durante with Bette Davis!

Marlene Dietrich

Clifton and couple of former actors, no longer romantic favorites, who team up on a television show and are riots kidding the love stories they used to play straight.

Sol C. Siegel, the producer, isn't making any secret that 20th Century-Fox is going all out to kid the pants off television programs. Claude Binyon is writing the script for Dietrich and Webb.

There's a hassle on between Stanley Kramer and Oscar Hammerstein III about Myron McCormick leaving "South Pacific" to come to Hollywood to make "The Sniper" for Kramer.

The Broadway produced says McCormick has a "run of the play" contract and if he wants to take a vacation starting September 15 that's all right — but not for a movie!

It's the same kind of argument Robert Merrill got into with Rudolph Bing when he left the Metropolitan to make "Aaron Slick From Pumpkin' Crick."

Gossip that Betty Hutton and Norman Krasna are on the verge of patching up their broken engagement—couldn't be wronger.

I talked with Betty about her broken romance and she was a serious kid when she said:

"I'm heartbroken that many people think I acted frivolously in breaking our engagement after just five days.

"We sincerely believed we had a happy future ahead of us when we announced our engagement. But we quarreled about something so important to us that there isn't the slightest chance of ever paching things up again."

If Elizabeth Taylor isn't happy with her contract—and she isn't—MGM is giving her every chance to talk out her problems when she returns from making "Ivanhoe" in England.

Luscious Liz's present ticket has about a year more to run. At that time—she is going to ask for a big increase in salary plus TV rights, plus a say-so on her pictures.

That's a tall order and a lot of authority for a girl who grew from pigtails to stardom on the lot. The men who have wisely guided her career are willing to listen to what she has to say—but they are hardly likely to agree to complete submission on all her points.

Hollywood in shorts:

Rita Hayworth's bags are packed for Reno. She's going to try to slip out of town tomorrow to slip out of her marriage to Aly.

When the Gary Copers get around to making a property settlement they'll have a cool $2,000,000 to divide.

A print of the "Blue Veil" (Jane Wyman's performance is terrif') is being rushed to London to get in under the August 29 deadline when the film for the command performance will be selected.

Alan Dwan, who directed some of Gloria Swanson's big hits, visited her on the set of "Three For Bedroom C," to talk over old times.

Lisa Kirk is sending $500 to Cpl. Gene Levin, in Korea, for his song, "Letter From Mary." Lisa is recording it—and so is Gloria De Haven.

Ann Sothern posing for Harper's Bazaar in her new finery before taking off for "Philomen Complex" in New York. The Walter Langs gave a farewell party for Ann, who is torn between being sad at leaving her friends and daughter, Tish, and excited about appearing on Broadway.

Judy Canova and her husband are seeing Paris with Corinne Calvet and John Bromfield.

Coleen Gray a happy girl because she gets Barbara Bel Geddes' role in "Moon Is Blue" in the road company. Coleen flew into Hollywood for a short visit tonight and returns for rehearsals September 15.

Myrna Loy has no picture plans after "Belles On Their Toes." She's eager to get back to Washington, D. C., and her bridegroom.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Abbott To Retire From W. Md. Post

E. E. Welsh, trainmaster of the Western Maryland Railway's Hagerstown division since 1940, has been named superintendent of the division beginning Sept. 1.

He will succeed J. A. Abbott, former Cumberland-Elkins Division superintendent, who is retiring after 47 years of service.

Welsh started with the railroad at Elkins, W. Va., in 1910 as a call boy. He worked as a brakeman, conductor, yardmaster, and assistant trainmaster before going to Hagerstown in 1935 as assistant trainmaster. He is a former resident of Ridgeley and played baseball in the old P. O. M. League.

Abbott resided here until his promotion to the Hagerstown post about ten years ago.

Local Man Jailed For Giving Stepson Liquor

A Cumberland man is in the county jail because he admitted giving whisky to his 16-year-old stepson Friday evening.

He is George Benson, 41, of 1509 Lexington Avenue, who was sentenced to a fine of $100 or 30 days in jail Saturday in Police Court by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick. Benson went to jail in default of the fine, but notified Magistrate Dick he was going to appeal the ruling.

Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey, who took Benson and his stepson into custody, said they were causing a disturbance at a South End tavern when he arrived. He testified that the boy was drunk and disorderly, a charge the boy admitted in court.

Why try to hide lack of assurance by a prancing walk, when a beautiful, assured one is so easy to attain?

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Don't let your walk give you away. A dainty trot or a sly little mince always betray a lack of assurance. And a "prance" even more so! No one resorts to highfalutin steps, head posing and general flaunting of herself unless she has an almost desperate feeling of insecurity. And if she does fool anybody, she only makes him or her think she is egotistical. No one ever won admiration by imposing that impression.

Easy to Acquire

You'll never be tempted to try to cover a lack of inner confidence with an exaggerated walk if you acquire a comportment that reflects calm. And your assurance will grow and grow with each friend and admirer you gain by it!

A poised walk is so uncomplicated and simple that you'll never believe it until you try it. It's yours, if you'll just:

1. Swing your step from your hip joint, keeping your knee relaxed but not doubled up in a bend. And make your step long enough so the space between each step is the length of your foot.

2. Keep your chin level with the floor. Move your head only when there is a reason for doing so—there should be no flitting of either eyes or head.

Facade of Confidence

3. Hold your shoulders and hips still as you move. This will be easy to do if you pull up to your full height at all times. Be sure, also, to limit the movement of your hands to meaningful or useful gestures. If necessary, clasp them or keep them in your pockets until they are convinced that you mean it!

Take just these small precautions and you will give to your world a picture of serenity. Then it will come running to you. A calm haven attracts everybody!

Tomorrow: Clearing the teen skin.

State Police Experts Will Help In Use Of Speedmeter

Expert advisors of the Maryland State Police will assist local authorities in operation of the radar speedmeter recently purchased by the Mayor and Council to abolish speeding in Cumberland.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long announced Saturday he had requested aid from Col. Elmer E. Munshower, superintendent of State Police. A reply from Major Ruxton Ridgeley, executive officer, stated:

"As soon as you receive the machine, please advise us and we will immediately assign one of our corporals to assist you. In fact, I will endeavor to come to Cumberland myself and lend whatever assistance I can to this most worthy project".

Long said the visiting experienced trooper will instruct members of the Police Department on how to use the $1,015 device and help in educating motorists. Large signs warning drivers about the presence of the electro-matic machine will be posted.

Due to numerous complaints about speeding in certain areas, the commissioner added, the speedmeter will be pressed into service on the following thoroughfares:

"McMullen Boulevard, Braddock Road, Greene, Fayette and Bedford Streets, Maryland, Virginia, Baltimore and Louisiana Avenues and Williams Road at the entrance to Constitution Park." At first, however, the machine will be used on all streets.

"One of the main goals of the Police Department this month has been to control speeding over city streets. The use of the speedmeter in the near future will help to correct this problem. The instrument is absolutely accurate and economical of manpower.

"As vacation ends and school begins, it is more important than ever that reckless driving be stopped."

Giants Win 14 In Row, Cut Brooklyn's Lead To Six Games

Bob Lemon Bags 16th Win, 2-1, After Wight Beats Tribe, 5-0

Year's Record Crowd Of 75,997 Sees Bosox And Cleveland Split

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26 (AP) — Luke Easter and Sam Chapman got the only two hits off Lefty Leo Kiely but both were home runs to give Bob Lemon and the league leading Cleveland Indians a second game 2-1 victory and a split in their doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox today.

The largest crowd of the year — 75,997 cash customers — watched Willie Wight blank the Indians, 5-0, in the opener.

The Indians made only three hits in the nightcap, but one—a single by Dale Mitchell—came off pitcher Ellis Kinder, who relieved Kiely in the eighth.

Lemon recorded his 16th triumph and his seventh in a row, but it took a sparkling rescue job by Mike Garcia to achieve it.

Garcia took over with one out in the top of the eighth after Lemon had surrendered walks to pinch hitter Charlie Maxwell and Johnny Pesky and was slugged for a run scoring single by Ted Williams. The stocky righthander then made Walt Dropo hit to Shortstop Ray Boone who started an inning-ending double play.

Garcia walked leadoff hitter Billy Goodman in the ninth but disposed of the next three men, getting Clyde Vollmer and Fred Hatfield on strikes. Box:

Ferrier Wins At Fort Wayne

Noses Out Middlecoff For $2,400 Top Prize

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 26 (AP) —Jim Ferrier, Australian playing out of San Francisco, skidded to a 71 today after shooting three straight 66's in the Fort Wayne Open Golf Tournament but it was good enough for the $2,400 first money.

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis golfing dentist, trailed Ferrier by seven strokes going onto the last nine and got back six of them for second prize of $1,800. He finished with a 270 total to Ferrier's 269.

Intermittent showers fell on the players and a gallery of about 3,000 at the Elks country club course.

Middlecoff put together a 35 and 32 for the windup, five-under-par 67, but it was overshadowed by a course record-equalling 63 by Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore. Zimmerman finished in a tenth-place tie with Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, the pro circuit's leading money winner, with a 274.

Glenn Teal of Knoxville, Tenn., who set the course record Thursday, was 12th with a 275.

Third place was a four-way tie on 271's by Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C.; Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich.; Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass., and Earl Stewart Jr., of Dallas.

Desperate Yanks Split Twin Bill With Pale Hose

New York Wins, 8-6, After 3-2 Setback

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP)—The desperate New York Yankees rolled up a 5-0 lead in the first three innings, then weathered a White Sox rally forged by three homers to take an 8-6 nightcap victory today after Chicago had won the doubleheader opener 3-2. The split left the Yanks one game behind leading Cleveland in the torrid American League pennant chase.

New York kept pace with the Indians who divided two games in Cleveland with the Boston Red Sox.

The Yankees piled up three runs in the first inning of the second game and two more in the third. But homers by Eddie Robinson, Pinch Hitter Bert Haas and Don Lenhardt nearly pulled the game out of the fire for the Sox.

Chicago also had two men on base in the last of the ninth before Allie Reynolds checked the surge.

Nellie Fox's double in the last of the ninth scoring Lenhardt was the deciding blow in the opener. A Comiskey Park crowd of 43,593 saw the twin bill which was interruped for 24 minutes by rain. Box:

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26 (AP)—Niles Jordan, making his major league debut, shut out the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 0, in the nightcap of a doubleheader today to give the Philadelphia Phillies an even split. Cincinnati took the opener, 4 to 2, as Ewell Blackwell pitched a five hitter to defeat the Phillies' ace, Robin Roberts.

Jordan, brought up from the Phillies' Class B Interstate League farm at Wilmington, Del., held the Reds to three hits. Cincinnati's Willie Ramsdell allowed the Phillies only three. Box:

Helen J. Martin, Plaintiff, vs. John C. Martin, Defendant, No. 22,180 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII for the Plaintiff, Helen J. Martin, of Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, against her husband, John C. Martin, Defendant, whose last known address was 1847 Covington Street, Baltimore, Maryland, and whose residence is unknown, two successive subpoenaes having been issued against the said John C. Martin and returned "Non Est" by the Sheriff of Baltimore City.

The bill states that on the 25th day of September, 1943, the said Helen J. Martin was married to John C. Martin, with whom she resided until November, 1949; that the said John C. Martin has declared his intention to live with her no longer and has abandoned her without any just cause or reason and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That the said Helen J. Martin and John C. Martin have had by said marriage four children who are still alive, viz: John E., born on the 16th day of January, 1944, Bonita G., born on the 26th day of January, 1945, Charles J., born on the 7th day of July, 1947, and Richard A., born on the 20th day of June, 1950, and that the said Helen J. Martin asks the guardianship and custody of the said infant child.

Baering Down On The News

(Distributed By INS)

You've got to concede that old Kentucky Sound-Track Barkley can keep the welkin ringing like boxed ears.

●—●—●

I claim that dear Alben elected Truman as sure as fuzz on a peach. Perfidious Alben sold us a moose on the hoof. And charged us for the hay.

●—●—●

But you can't stay sore at amiable Alben when he turns on that old Kentucky bonded smile as innocent as a new-laid egg.

●—●—●

And a grateful Truman gave Alben the greatest gift a V. P. can receive after election. He let him keep on shooting off his puss. There has been great slaughter in oratorical cats.

Cairo Demonstrators Rip Down Union Jack

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 26 (AP)—Demonstrators shouting anti-British slogans tore down a Union Jack fluttering outside the office of the British Overseas Airways Corp. in downtown Cairo today.

This was part of a demonstration, which the authorities did not permit to develop fully, on the 15th anniversary of the signing of the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty. No serious trouble resulted.

The two countries have been wrangling over the treaty since the end of World War II. The controversy hinges mainly on British troops stationed in the Suez Canal area.

Mossadegh Assailed By Iranian Deputy

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Iranian Majlis (lower house of parliament) was thrown into turmoil today when a deputy sharply assailed Premier Mohammed Mossadegh for failing to resolve the oil nationalization crisis with Britain.

Cries of "traitor!" arose and Jamal Imami, an influential deputy was forced to cut short his remarks.

"We nationalized our oil to put an end to poverty, not to endanger our independence," Imami declared. "If we had known our action might lead the country to destruction we would never have taken such a step."

County Farm Queen Places Second In State Contest

Miss Clara Jean Browning, 17-year-old Flintstone girl, who represented Allegany county in the Maryland farm queen contest Saturday at Timonium Fair, near Baltimore, was the second prize winner. She placed behind Miss Jean Endslow, 18, of Harford county, who will reign as queen of the State Fair at Timonium starting Wednesday.

The Flintstone high school senior almost missed the contest. Soon after she and members of her family left yesterday morning for Timonium a wheel came off their car. No one was hurt but Miss Browning arrived just in time for the judging. Miss Margaret Brenneman, of Garrett county, was among five other contestants who won awards in the judging.

All but Caroline county was represented in this year's contest. All of the contestants ranging in age from 16 to 18, wore cotton dresses. And for the first time they had to answer questions put to them by the judges about hobbies, farm life and similar subjects.

They were judged on appearance, personality, farm interest, poise and manners.

Judges were Miss Margaret E. Holloway, home demonstration agent for Baltimore county; Miss Helen Shelby, clothing specialist with the Extension Service at the University of Maryland, and Mrs. Abram Pearce, of the Maryland Council of Homemakers.

Other prize winners in this display were Mrs. Charles Wright, RFD 1, $5 second; Mrs. Nina Bender, Flintstone, $4 third; Mrs. Nelson Willison, RFD 4, $3 fourth, and Delores Airesman, Salisbury, Pa., $2 fifth.

Clubs Win $300

A total of $300 will be distributed among the 24 Allegany County Homemakers Clubs which competed in the theme booth competition. The first eight clubs in the contest were Union Grove, first, $25; Potomac Valley, second, $22; Mapleside, third, $20; Frostburg, fourth, $18; Homemakers' Chorus, fifth, $16; Lonaconing, sixth, $14; Shaft, seventh, $13, and North Branch, eighth, $12.

The next 16 clubs received $10 each. They were Oldtown, Flintstone, Happy Valley, Ellerslie, East Side, Bedford Road, Town Creek, Piney Plains, Midland, Midlothian, Polish Mountain, Cresaptown,edU2o North Cumberland, Spring Gap, Polish Mountain, Cresaptown, Eckhart and Pleasant Grove.

game, Ted Lauer of Keyser won three of the four events. He circled the bases in 15¼ seconds to beat "Mutt" Kuhn, beat Whiteman of Frostburg in the dash event and made the longest baseball throw—360 feet — beating Wayne Raines also of Keyser. Shields of Frostburg won the most accurate throw with Bo Hess, Keyser, second.

Westvaco's Papermakers racked up 25 hits in crushing Lonaconing.

Five Hits For Inskeep

Joe Inskeep rapped four doubles and a single, Bobby Muir collected a homer, double and two singles and Alec Ambrose smacked a tripile, double and two singles to head the Westvaco swatsmiths. Love pounded a two-bagger and single for 'Coney. "Woody" Woodson was the winning pitcher.

Six errors and poor base running paved the way to Cumberland's defeat at Stitcher Field. The Merchants outhit the Fireman, 14-13, and came near pulling the game out of the fire with a three-run rally in the last of the 9th.

Manager "Bee" Scarpelli with two doubles and a single and Gene Stair with a double and two singles paced the winners at the plate. "Pete" Deremer garnered two doubles and Bob Cook had a two-bagger and a single.

Vance Shears rapped three doubles in five trips for the Merchants as did Jack Lowe. Charley Genevie hammered a double and single while Ray Blackburn connected for a triple and one-bass swat. The scores:

Gavilan Defends Title Wednesday

Welter Champion To Face Graham

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, winner of his last ten fights, defends his crown for the first time Wednesday night against clever Billy Graham of New York in a 15-rounder in Madison Square Garden.

The flashy Cuban is a 2 to 1 choice to win his rubber bout with the 29-year old challenger. Last year, before Gavilan captured the title, the two split in a couple of ten rounders. Both fights were very close. But 1950 was not a very good year for the 25-year-old Cuban.

This year he concentrated on his work and swept all seven of his bouts, including the 15-round victory over Johnny Bratton on May 18 that gave him the championship.

Graham, on the other hand, has had only one bout in '51. He beat Billy Jenkins in an eight on Aug. 9 and may suffer from the lack of action.

The bout, starting at 9 p. m. (EST), will be broadcast and telecast by CBS. The air rights were sold for $50,000. A crowd of around 10,000 is expected to pay around $45,000 to see the show in the Garden.

On Monday, undefeated Rocky Marciano, Brockton, Mass., heavyweight contender, meets Freddie Beshore of Harrisburg, Pa., in a Boston ten.

'Flying Housewife' Takes All Events

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 26 (AP)—Fanny Blankers-Koen, the "Flying Housewife" from Holland, won all five events to capture the women's pentathlon here today during a Swiss-German track and field meet.

The 33-year-old Dutch Olympic champion, mother of two children, piled up a total of 4185 points.

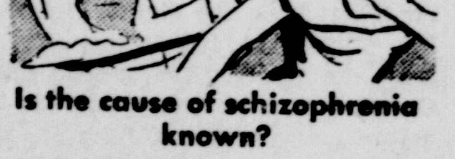
Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

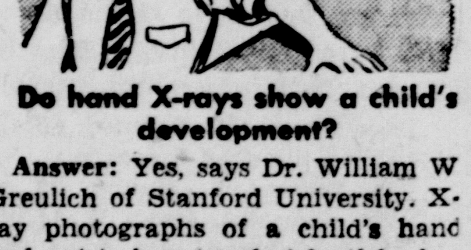
Are "lonely hearts clubs" trustworthy?

Answer: Not all of them are "rackets," but so many of them have been used for one form or another of extortion that it's usually wiser to look elsewhere for a way to make new social contacts. One way, of course is to find a job in which you work with members of the opposite sex and another is to join a church, particularly one with numerous affiliated "clubs" for people of various ages. Still another way is to take up a hobby — photography, stamp-collecting or what you will—and join an organization devoted to it. Nothing gets you to know people better than doing things with them which both they and you enjoy.



Is the cause of schizophrenia known?

Answer: No one cause has yet been identified and perhaps none ever will be. For schizophrenia represents the total reaction of an individual to life as he sees it, and in this, both the sort of person he is and all that has happened to him since his birth are equally important factors. Dr. James T. Fisher even suggests that in certain cases "a chance change of environment or the companionship of a new-found and understanding friend" may steer the individual away from the decision to break off from the real world and retire to one of his own making. It is this decision— made entirely unconsciously — that constitutes schizophrenia.



Do hand X-rays show a child's development?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. William W Greulich of Stanford University. X-ray photographs of a child's hand and wrist show to what level he has developed physically, and the method has these advantages: (1) changes are easy to see; 2) they occur in orderly sequence; 3) they follow through the whole period from birth to adulthood and (4) they may be compared with those of other children. There appears to be a particularly close relationship between the maturation of the skeleton and the evolution of the reproductive system. If you fear your child's development has been retarded, here's a scientific way of "checking."

Seven Hurt In Weekend Auto Mishaps

Cumberland Man In Critical Condition

Seven men were injured—at least one of them critically—over the weekend in area highway accidents.

Most seriously hurt was John Stickley, 23, of 158 Polk Street, who was reported in critical condition at Memorial Hospital from head injuries. Stickley and Richard Roland, 18, Baltimore Pike, were hurt in an automobile accident on W. Va. Route 28 near the Old Furnace Road intersection about 10 o'clock Saturday night. Roland was reported in satisfactory condition at Memorial Hospital.

James Harrison Donald, 20, Charlestown Street, Lonaconing, another weekend accident victim, was injured when he fell from the back of a truck in which he was riding on Route 40.

Robert Bernard Wilt, 28, and John Lewis Alexander, 44, both of Midland, were hurt when the auto in which they were riding crashed into the back of a truck on Route 40A.

Cpl. O. G. Webley, of West Virginia State Police, investigating the mishap in which Stickley and Roland were injured reported that Virl Peer, RFD No. 1, Ridgeley, W. Va., gave this account of the accident:

Driving South

Peer was driving his truck south on Route 28, when he saw a car coming toward him weaving from side to side. To avoid a crash, he pulled off the road and parked. He said the car hit the left front side of the truck tearing off a fender, pulling loose the front wheel and twisting the left back dual wheels sideways. The truck then fell on its side.

Fell From Truck

Donald was admitted to Miners' Hospital, Frostburg, Saturday about 5 p. m. with fractures of both legs, possible head injuries and severe shock. He was riding on the rear of a truck hauling furniture to Garrett County when the cargo gave way and fell out on Route 40 at the foot of Little Savage Mountain. His condition remained fair last night.

Trooper Charles DeWitt, who investigated, said Donald attempted to grab the furniture as it shifted and moved to the rear. He toppled to the highway and some of the cargo apparently fell on him. Driver of the truck was not identified.

Hurt Near Hagerstown

A passing motorist, Curtis Green, of Frostburg, took Donald to the hospital and the truck later continued on its route.

Wilt and Alexander are patients at Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown. They were hurt when their car rammed against the rear of a truck on Route 40A, east of the Hub City.

Authorities said Wilt sustained internal injuries, fractures of the upper and lower jaws, nose and leg and facial lacerations. Alexander was hurt about the chest, and hospital attaches reported he may have a punctured lung and fractures of several ribs.

Wilt was driving east on South Mountain when it hit the truck operated by John H. Waters, of Baltimore, according to Trooper Richard Myers. The automobile was demolished.

All three of the injured were in "fair" condition last night.

Two other men suffered serious injuries Saturday when the car in which they were riding struck a bridge abutment near Hancock. Trooper Richard Garvey listed them as Thomas J. Lenihan and James Collaran, both of Chicago.

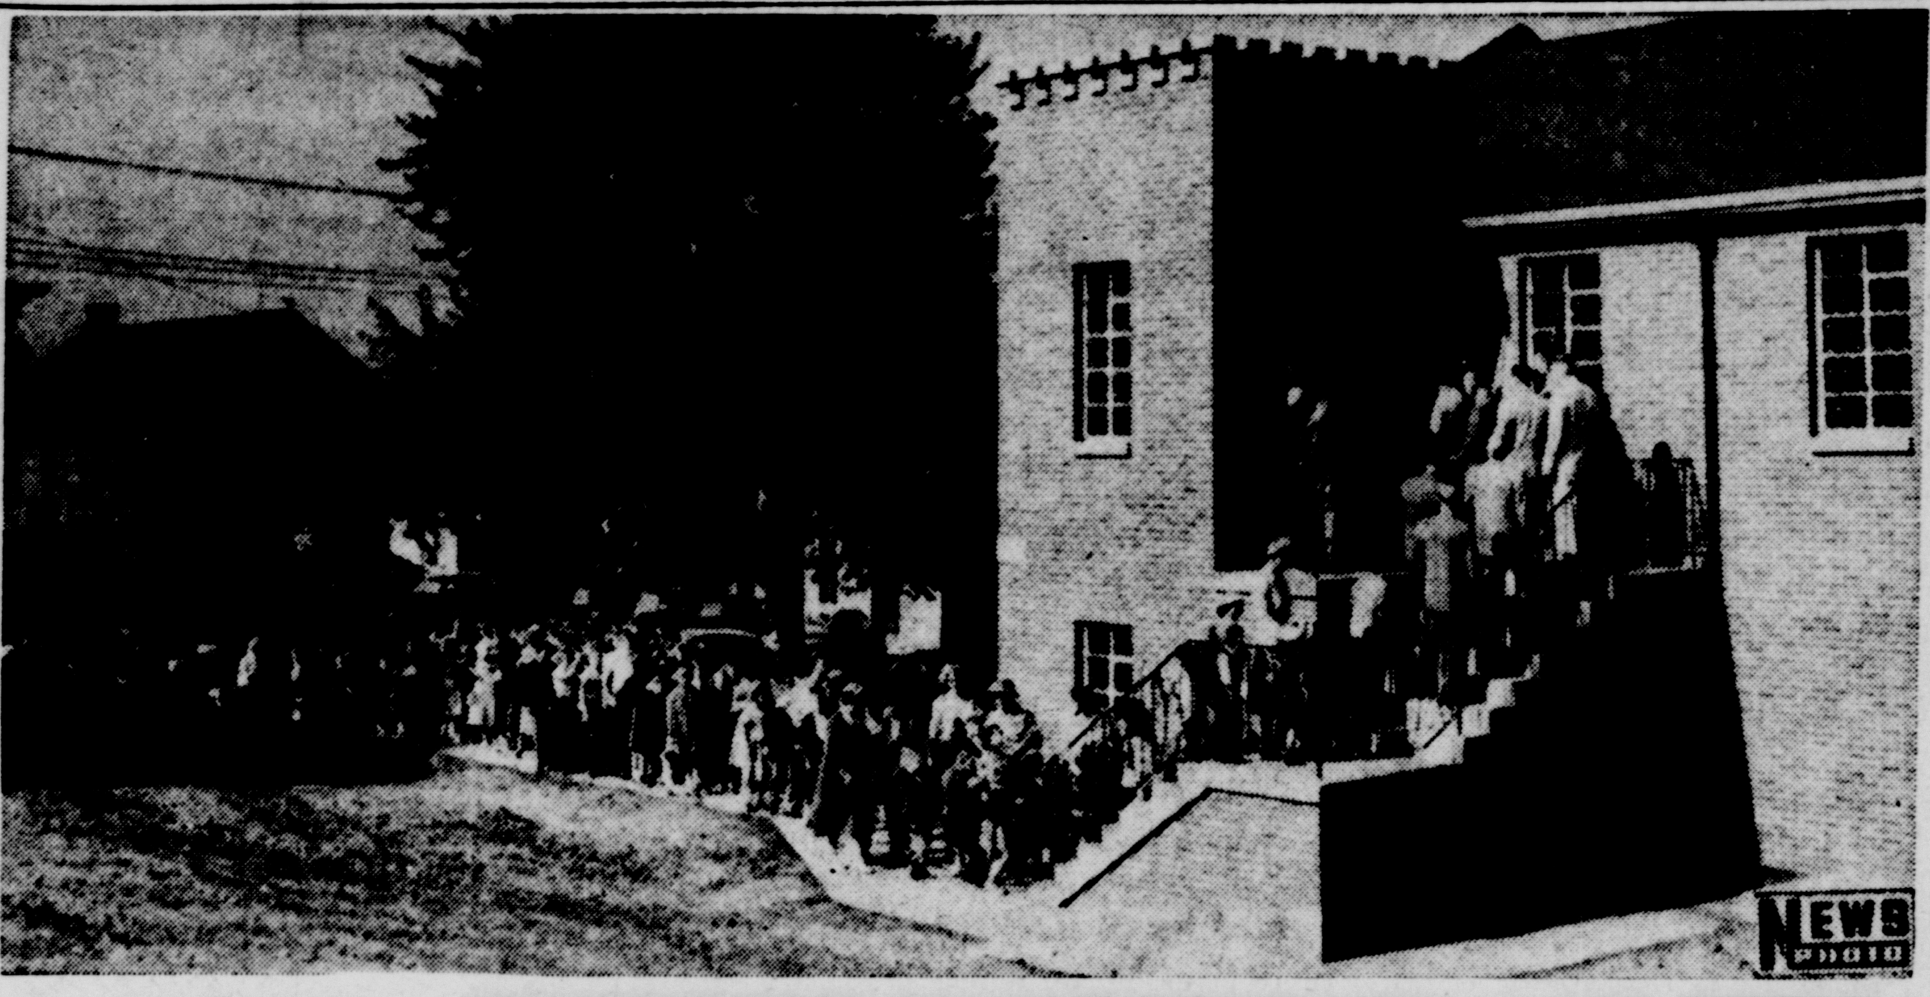
City Police Probe Tavern Burglary

City Police are investigating a Sunday morning burglary at the Rubber Tire Tavern, 751 Kelly Boulevard.

Police said Hugh Stride, manager of the tavern, told them he and his wife returned from their vacation early yesterday morning to find the screen door to their apartment over the tavern had been forced.

Burglars had then used a "skeleton" key to open the house door. They took a glass bank containing about $15, then went downstairs to the tavern and stole seven or eight cartons of cigarettes. Nothing else was missing.

Police said the theft occurred some time after the tavern closed at midnight.



NEW CHURCH OPENED — Members of the congregation of Grace Baptist Church, Greene Street, are shown (top photo) filing into their new church Sunday morning, for the first service to be held there. In the lower picture, John E. Effland, Sr., chairman of the board of deacons, opens the door. Looking on are Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, pastor; Fern Wilson, president of the board of trustees; Earl E. Manges, local attorney, who spoke at the service, and Joseph K. Trenton, church deacon. The new church, for which ground was broken December 30, will be formally dedicated Sunday, September 9.

Marshall Will Run For House

Hopes To Succeed J. Glenn Beall

J. Paul Marshall, Montgomery County member of the House of Delegates, has announced he'll go after the Congressional seat now held by Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg.

Marshall said he was announcing his candidacy for the GOP nomination to Congress from the Sixth District because of Beall's "decision" to run for the U. S. Senate.

Beall recently said he was thinking of trying for the Senate seat held by Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D-Md) but will make no definite decision for another month.

Marshall, a Washington attorney and chairman of the Maryland Federation of Young Republicans, was a lieutenant commander in the Navy during World War II.

In 1941 he was a research assistant to Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), and in 1946 he went to Korea as a member of the U. S. Reparations Mission. He served as special counsel to the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs in 1948.

Marshall's father was Assistant Attorney General during the Coolidge administration.

Herd Supervisor Receives Prize

Hagerstown Farmer Wins Dairy Award

Harry E. Miller, 68 South Water Street, Frostburg, won fifth prize in the state contest for Dairy Herd Improvement Association supervisors, according to an announcement from the University of Maryland.

Miller, who is supervisor of the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association, finished fifth in competition with more than 50 other supervisors from around the state. Winner of first prize of $50 and a bronze plaque was T. Richard Betts, supervisor of the Baltimore 2 Association.

A man well known here won a bronze plaque and $50 first prize in the Maryland efficient dairy production contest for Dairy Herd Improvement Association members. He was Harry O. Harbaugh, RFD 4, Hagerstown.

Just last week Harbaugh ran away with top honors in the Holstein Division of the Livestock Department in the 34th annual Cumberland Fair. His four-year old cow won the grand championship in the Holstein breed and after the judging was over Dr. J. W. Pou, head of the University of Maryland Dairy Department, said she was the best dairy animal at Fairgo.

County Agent R. F. McHenry said last night that he thought it was this same cow which won the state contest for Harbaugh.

The contest winners were announced and prizes were awarded at a banquet at College Park.

Today's Sermonette

Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. Matthew 4:1.

By REV. L. W. BURTON

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Park Place Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. L. W. Burton. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

He Was Tempted

Have you ever been tempted? Certainly Jesus was.

The message this morning is centered about our Lord's experience during the forty days when He was apart from men in the wilderness.

Rev. Burton

Our Lord wanted to be with the elemental forces of nature and the soul. When men live under the open skies they come very close to God, especially during the quiet hours that precede dawn they often come to a new awareness of our Father and His universe. Here in this wilderness Jesus felt very close to elementary evil, danger and fear, while at the same time He was so very near to God and spiritual awareness.

Notice that our Lord did not enter into this great temptation until He had first accepted his destiny; until He knew the great mission of His life.

Within each of the three specific temptations was included the great temptation. This great temptation was that Jesus might not fully accept the will of God for His life.

Let us look at the three temptations. "If thou be the Son of God command that these stones be made bread." We all know that we must eat to live; our Lord knew this. He never ignored the physical needs of man. He simply put first things first. The body needs physical bread, the soul needs spiritual bread, fundamentally we believe that one or the other comes first. Jesus rejected the materialistic way when He said, "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

The second temptation concerned a spectacular use of spiritual power. Had our Lord accepted Satan's offer at this time it would have shown people how they could use God for their own ends — how much they could get out of religion. Jesus had rejected the materialistic way. Now he had to reject the wrong spiritual way. False religion had proved to be as great a temptation at materialism. In reply to Satan's second call, our Lord answered, "It is written Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."

As Jesus stood on a high mountain surveying the kingdoms of the world Satan said to Him, "All these things will I give Thee, if Thou wilt fall down and worship me." Someone has defined politics as the science of the possible. We speak the same truth when we say, "It isn't what you know, but who you know that counts." This is the route of political short-cut. Jesus rejected this way as decisively as the other two. His answer? "Get thee hence Satan, for it is written, thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve."

Bread, spiritual power and politics are important, but not one of them or even all three taken together are the most important thing in life. Man's number one objective has not changed. It is to know and do the will of God.

Garrett, Allegany Boys Share FFA Judging Prizes

A Garrett County boy won the livestock honors but two Allegany County youngsters were winners in dairy and poultry divisions in the two-county Future Farmers of America judging contest conducted as one of the features of the 34th annual Cumberland Fair last week.

The contest was conducted Thursday but the scores of 54 contestants, 28 from Allegany and 26 from Garrett, were not checked against the record of the official judge until later.

Richard Teets of Accident won the $6 first prize in livestock judging. Because he won, the Accident FFA Club won the livestock banner. Nearest the top prize winner were James Smith, Flintstone, $5 second prize; Carl Kamp, Accident, $4 third prize; Guy Mummert, Accident, $3 fourth prize, and Homer Hoover, Accident, $2 fifth prize. Seventeen other boys finishing nearest the top five received $1 premiums.

Other top prize winners were Louis Schlosnagle, Accident, $5 second; Allen Fratz, Accident, $4 third; Carl Kamp, Accident, $3 fourth, and Alvin McGettigan, Allegany High, from Cresaptown, $2 fifth. Sixteen other boys who followed McGettigan in that order won $1 premiums.

Take Four Of Five

Oldtown boys took four of the five top places in the poultry judging contest. Donald Platt, Oldtown, took the $6 first prize and won the poultry banner for his club. Trailing him were Eddie Mueller, Oldtown, $5 second prize; James Carder, Oldtown, $4 third; Reganold Bowser, Accident, $3 third; Donald Nixon, Oldtown, $2 fifth. The next 16 boys received $1 premiums.

James H. House, who was in charge of the contest, said that $20 of the prize money came from Dr. Samuel E. Enfield, Cumberland physician, who owns a farm as a hobby. He said that Dr. Enfield contributed a total of $50. Thirty dollars was distributed at $1 per boy and girl to all of the 30 FFA and 4-H members who showed hogs and dairy cattle at the fair.

Teter Will Compete In Tractor Test

Gary Teter of Flintstone is expected to leave Thursday to compete the following day with farm boys from most of the state's other 22 counties in the Tractor Operators' Contest in the 4-H program at the Timonium State Fair.

The contest will be one of the regularly scheduled 4-H events to take place between tomorrow and Sunday, September 2, at Timonium.

Young Teter was second in last year's contest and hopes to edge up into the top spot. Winner at Timonium will go to a northeastern regional contest at Springfield, Mass. The second place boy will be sent to the Atlantic Rural Exposition, Richmond, Va., to vie in the southeastern contest. Teter won the county contest at last week's Cumberland Fair.

According to Guy Gienger, University of Maryland agricultural engineer who is in charge of the contest, new tractors will be used and the boys will be given a practice period to acquire the "feel" of the machine. As part of the actual contest, the boys will first have to "service" their tractors by examining the air cleaner, the tires and checking the fuel supply, the oil and the water level.

They must start the engines in a safe and proper manner — scorers will be on hand to observe each boy. If the proper checking and safety measures are not carried out his negligence is counted against him.

As a test of actual driving ability each boy will attach a farm implement to his tractor, line up both implement and tractor and back them down alleys marked by stakes, draw the implement through gates, drive around a shed, then line up the attached implement and back it into the shed, and finally, uncouple the tractor from the implement. Then he will line up his tractor and belt to a blower or hammer mill. Each boy will be timed during his performance on this obstacle course.

Today Marks Anniversary Of Train Seizure

Army Still Holds Technical Control

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway will observe an anniversary without fanfare at 5 p.m. DST today.

At that hour the first anniversary of the U. S. Army's seizure of these two lines and the nation's other major railroads will be reached.

The Army's technical control of the nation's railroads has been so quiet and orderly that most people probably have even forgotten that it is a fact.

It was 5 p.m. DST, on Sunday, August 27, 1950, that the Army took over control of the railroads to avoid a nation-wide strike. It was the fourth time since 1943 that such an action had been taken by the Federal Government.

Some 300,000 trainmen and conductors had threatened to walk out the morning of August 28, 1950, over a wage-hour dispute unless President Truman should put the railroads under government control.

Roy Barton White, president of the B & O, as Col. White, was placed in charge of all railroads in this section a year ago and still holds this position. Six other railroad presidents were given jurisdiction in other sections of the country. All report to Secretary of the Army Frank Pace.

Although the dispute has been settled a year later, the railroads still are operating.

Blown Fuse Shuts Off Phone Ringing Power

The ringing power for phones in Cumberland was cut off for several minutes last night by a blown fuse.

Richard E. Harman, manager of the local telephone office, said that the blown fuse was a routine difficulty. He explained that a maintenance man at the central office quickly replaced the fuse. The only persons aware of the difficulty were those few who tried to make calls during the two-minute lull.

Brother, Sister Reunited After 46 Years Separation

Seeing her brother for the first time in 46 years was the pleasant experience of a Cumberland resident last week.

Mollie Baker Reid, 74, of 123 Cumberland Street, and James Baker Clark, 71, become separated when children and while he was passing through Cumberland on vacation was able to locate her through the city police.

When Mrs. Reid was about 12 years old her mother died and the father took the other four members of the family to Baltimore where they were adopted. She remained in Cumberland and is now residing at the home of her son Robert P. Reid, retired assistant chief of the city fire department.

The last time she had heard from Clark was in Atlanta, Ga., where he had been working as a pharmacist. He later moved to Florida and they lost contact with each other. The brother had been on vacation last week and was coming from New York. He realized there would be a possibility of locating his sister in Cumberland, where he had left at the age of eight. With the assistance of police, the two were united.

Mrs. Reid has two other children, Mrs. Mabel Bogler, 313 Paca Street and James Reid, Hyndman. Clark has three children, two married daughters in Texas and a son who resides in Florida. And now that the brother and sister, separated for nearly a half century, know the whereabouts of each other, another reunion is planned at an early date, Mrs. Reid said yesterday.

Weather Forecast

Some cloudiness and rather warm today.

REDS CHARGE NEW U.S. VIOLATIONS

India Will Not Sign Jap Pact

U. S. Rejects Objections, Saying Imperfections Must Be Accepted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — India refused formally today to attend the San Francisco conference next month or sign the Japanese peace treaty sponsored by the United States and Britain. The action drew a brusquely worded American suggestion that every country has to take what it may consider "imperfections" to get international agreement.

The great South Asian nation raised objections to the draft, related on one hand to Prime Minister Nehru's Asia-for-Asiatics policy, and on the other hand to his bid for a position of "neutrality" in the conflict between Soviet Russia and the West.

India's Logic Questioned

This country responded with a denial of the suggestion that the proposed pact carries "the seeds of another war" in the Far East. The 1,500-word note questioned the logic by which India arrived at simultaneous conclusions that (1) the Ryukyu and Bonin Islands, proposed for U. S. trusteeship, should go back to Japan (2) the Kuriles and South Sakhalin should be confirmed as Russian and (3) Formosa should go to Communist China.

In response to India's argument that the provision for keeping American troops in Japan will look like a condition imposed by a conqueror, the U. S. note said the alternative is to leave Japan defenseless right under the fist of a known aggressor.

High diplomatic officials expressed fear India's turn-down of the bid to the conference starting Sept. 4 would give powerful propaganda ammunition to Russia in its campaign to block signing of the pact.

49 Nations To Attend

A 35-member Soviet delegation, headed by Acting Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, has sailed from France en route to the United States to attend the conference. The common belief among diplomats here is that it has the mission of a wrecking crew.

The U. S.-India exchange was made public at the State Department tonight. India's note was dated Aug. 23 and the American response Aug. 25.

A total of 49 countries have made arrangements to attend the conference in San Francisco including Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia. Burma and Yugoslavia have joined India in turning down invitations. Egypt, Syria and Lebanon have not yet indicated whether they will attend.

American officials were disappointed at India's decision and particularly irked at the reasons advanced by the New Delhi government for objecting to the treaty.

Although it plays into Russia's propaganda offensive, these officials expressed belief India's move was not dictated by a desire to aid Moscow in its anti-Western campaign.

Russians Assail Jap Treaty, U. S. Curbs On Trade

Would Make Nippon "American Colony"

MOSCOW, Aug. 26 (AP) — The government newspaper Izvestia today assailed the proposed Japanese peace treaty as an American attempt to set Japan against other Asian peoples and make it into an American colony.

In another long editorial, Izvestia renewed its attack on the United States for cancelling the Soviet-American trade pact of 1937.

This, the paper said, is creating "artificial barriers" between the Soviet and American peoples. It added that annulment of the treaty is proof that declarations of friendship by President Truman and by Congress are empty words designed to mask the real aggressive intentions toward Russia and its people.

Izvestia said the American-sponsored Japanese peace treaty, which will be laid before the San Francisco conference opening Sept. 4, and the proposed Japanese-American military agreement mean "strangulation of the national interests of Japan."

The paper said the treaty was "generous" to the government of Premier Shigeru Yoshida, which it said is "afraid of the Japanese people and therefore prefers to govern the country from behind a palisade of American bayonets." But for the Japanese people as a whole, it said, it means colonial status.

Izvestia said the military agreement will give the United States the right to maintain unlimited forces in Japan, as well as extensive naval bases, and will give American troops free movement throughout Japan.

ROKs Battling To Regain Ridge

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 27 (Monday)—(INS)—Three thousand North Korean troops took a ridgeline on the east-central front in Korea Sunday but South Korean forces counterattacked and by nightfall were making limited gains.

An Eighth Army communique said that heavy fighting raged all day in the renewed flareup of the "battle of the hills" in the area north of Yanggu.

The Red assault was launched at 2 a. m. by two North Korean companies and the full regiment went on the offensive at dawn.

By mid-morning the Allies had lost most of the ridge.

But in the evening, the South Koreans regained the offensive and the Reds were slowly falling back at nightfall.

Action on the remainder of the fighting front was limited to patrols.

Communist commanders kept up their dogged effort to resupply their front-line troops despite relentless pounding by Allied air and naval arms. On Saturday alone 800 Communist vehicles were destroyed.

Another Billion Cut In Aid Bill Proposed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—An across-the-board cut of $1,000,000,000 in the $7,535,000,000 foreign aid authorization bill was proposed today by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich).

At the same time, Sen. George (D-Ga) told reporters he is not satisfied with the $964,000,000 the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees slashed out of President Truman's $8,500,000,000 request.

George said he may offer an amendment himself when the bill comes before the Senate early this week, but said he hadn't yet determined the amount.

McKeldin Might Run For Vice President

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 26 (AP) — Back from a whirlwind 10,000 mile guided tour of the West, Maryland's Gov. McKeldin tonight speculated on the nation's political temper and indicated that he might be willing to run for vice president on a Republican ticket.

"If they want a good whistle-stop campaigner for a second place on the ticket, they might look this way," he said in an interview at the governor's mansion.

It was not altogether certain who the governor thought might make a good running mate in the number one position.

"Top Down" Probe Of OSS Slaying Urged

Rep. Cole Assails Pentagon Attitude

WASHINGTON, Aug 26 (AP) — Rep. Cole (R-NY) today called for "a-top-to-bottom" investigation by the House Armed Services Committee of what he termed "the Defense Department's baffling performance in connection with the death of OSS Maj. William V. Holohan.

The Office of Strategic Services was this country's "cloak-and-dagger" outfit for spying and counter intelligence.

Many of its files on Americans who fought behind enemy lines are secret to protect techniques and contacts that might be needed again. But last week the Pentagon lifted the cover on a story about Holohan that rivals the paper-bound whodunits at the corner news stand.

Allegedly Slain By Aides

Maj. Holohan headed a mission that was dropped behind enemy lines in Italy to aid partisans. He was slain by his own American aides, according to a story now told by Italians who are soon to go on trial in Italy as accomplices.

The Americans, Lt. Aldo Icardi, Pittsburgh, and Sgt. Carlo G. Lodolce, Rochester, N. Y., the radio operator, deny the Italians story and Lodolce has repudiated a confession attributed to him.

Cole said in a statement that the first question for the Defense Department to answer is why, as he puts it, it has shown so little interest in pushing the case to a final and complete solution.

Developments "Suppressed"

The second question that the Defense Department must answer, Cole said, is why it suppressed developments for more than a year.

"One of the two Americans charged with the murder by the Defense Department signed a confession on August 3, 1950. Two Italian partisans confessed in March 1950," said Cole.

"Yet the Defense Department concealed the truth until Aug. 15 when an advance copy of True magazine with an expose of the case arrived at the Pentagon."

Police Break Up Stockholm Riot

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 26 (AP) — Police swung sabers and clubs in the heart of normally calm Stockholm early today to break up park hangers-on apparently rioting just for the fun of it.

Police reported several persons injured in the large-scale fighting and arrested 16 men and three women. One person had ribs splintered from a saber jab.

About 50 policemen charged repeatedly into a crowd of several thousand and finally broke up the battle after several hours. The fights started soon after midnight.

Crowds have rioted on a smaller scale and without any political motivation for the past six weekends.

The weekend battles started when police raided Berzeli Park, a favorite spot for prostitutes and their men friends. The park lies opposite the Royal Dramatic Theater.

Egypt Rewards Trio Who Swam Channel

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 26 (AP) — The Egyptian government today awarded a total of £1,500 ($4,200) to three Egyptians who swam the English Channel Aug. 16.

The awards were the same sums as the prizes offered by the London Daily Mail to winners in its annual channel race. The Egyptians rejected their prizes, declaring that the newspaper had "slandered" King Farouk I of Egypt.

'Muscle Builder' Macfadden 'Chutes Into Hudson River

ALPINE, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP) — Eighty-three-year-old Bernarr Macfadden, the "muscle builder" physical culturist, parachuted from a plane into the Hudson River today, landing safely 20 feet from the New Jersey shore.

Rescuers dragged him from the water into a fishing boat as he boasted:

"I feel like a million."

Next year, he said "I'm going to jump over Niagara Falls."

But his octogenarian antics nearly landed Macfadden into trouble today.

While several thousand persons watched from the opposite Yonkers shore, Macfadden's chute took him within 20 feet of the huge rocks piling the New Jersey bank below the towering Palisades.

Two Yonkers river men and a fireman who were crabbing nearby pulled Macfadden from the water into their boat.

This year he had planned to observe his birthday by parachuting above Niagara Falls and landing in the churning waters below the cataract.

This project was dropped, at least temporarily, because Macfadden said "there was just too darned much red tape between the American and Canadian authorities."

Macfadden said today's jump was made to prove the "safety of parachuting into water" to young airmen in the U. S. armed services.

Russia, Hungary Reportedly Sign Military Treaty

Calls For Exchange Of Training Units

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Hungary and Soviet Russia have signed a secret military agreement permitting the Red army to send new units to Hungary for training in addition to maintaining already large Soviet occupation forces, it was reported today.

A refugee who has just reached Western Europe said the agreement was signed at Budapest in early June. His identity cannot be given because his family is still in Hungary, but he had close contacts in the Hungarian Defense Ministry.

He said the agreement was signed by Hungary under orders from Moscow. It calls for the Hungarian army to send complete units to Russia for training and maneuvers with Red army units, and for the Red army to send complete units to Hungary for similar purposes—all at Hungary's expense.

There have been previous reports of a secret Russian-Hungarian agreement permitting Soviet troops to remain in Hungary indefinitely. These reports, also from refugee sources, have said that this agreement was part of a Soviet-Hungarian mutual aid and no-aggression pact, concluded after the signing of the Hungarian peace treaty.

Under the treaty, Soviet troops are supposed to leave Hungary as soon as a treaty of independence is signed with Austria. Russia was permitted to leave troops in Hungary because she claimed the need for protecting supply lines to Soviet occupation troops in Austria.

Berlin Red Police Release Two GIs

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (AP)—Two American soldiers who were seized last night by Communist police in the Soviet sector of Berlin were released tonight unharmed by the Russians after 22 hours detention.

They were Cpl. Robert Lentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lentz, Hamilton, Ohio, and Cpl. Alvin S. Bryson, whose wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Bryson, live at Asheville, N. C.

"We just got off at the wrong bahn (elevated railway) station and the Communist police grabbed us," the soldiers said. "All we wanted was to get a beer in the Russian sector. We were not misbehaving."

Four Who Bailed Out Over Alaska Sought

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 26 (AP)—Four persons bailed out of a C-47 airplane when it went into a spin early this morning and searchers immediately began combing the Alaska wilderness for them.

Twenty-eight minutes after the plane went into its spin, the pilot and co-pilot landed it safely at Elmendorf Air Force base. The two crewmen and two passengers, all unidentified, made their jumps between Sheep Mountain and Wasilla. The C-47 was en route from Whitehorse to Elmendorf.

Flying Wing Crash Fatal To Designer

TORRENCE, Calif., Aug. 26 (AP)—The designer and builder of a little experimental aircraft, a rectangular flying wing, crashed to his death in it today.

James P. Martin, 34, took the plane off from the Municipal airport here without authorization, an official said, after several taxi runs on and near the ground.

Three young boys, eyewitnesses, said they saw the craft rise to 100 feet or more, make a right turn, then apparently stall and spin to the ground in an open field.

The plane which Martin had named the "Roadster" was only about 10 feet long and had a wingspread of about 12 feet. It had a 40 horsepower engine and prop in front and a tiny cabin. It was made of sheet aluminum. It had no tail assembly.

Hearst-Davies "Agreement" Is Held Worthless

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26 (AP) — Special administrators of the estate of William Randolph Hearst declared today that a supposed agreement giving the late publisher's longtime friend, Marion Davies, voting control of Hearst enterprises "has no more effect than if it never existed."

Published reports were that Miss Davies, former actress whose real name is Marion Douras, and Hearst signed an agreement Nov. 5, 1950, under which they were named the only two trustees in a voting trust for the stock of the Hearst Corp., holding company for the enterprises.

The reports said that ownership of their stock in the corporation was pooled for voting purposes and that in the event of the death of either, the other should vote the entire stock for his or her lifetime.

The statement today was given in the name of the two special administrators, Randolph Apperson Hearst, one of Hearst's five sons, and Henry S. Mackay, Jr., personal counsel for the publisher. It said:

"Henry S. Mackey, Jr., and Randolph Apperson Hearst, the special administrators of the estate of William Randolph Hearst, state that they have known about the paper dated Nov. 5, 1950—the so-called agreement referred to in today's newspapers.

"According to the report this paper is supposed to make Miss Marion Douras the sole voting trustee in control of all the Hearst property. This so-called agreement dated Nov. 5, 1950, was never executed and for this and many other reasons has no more effect than if it never existed."

Harriman, Tito Agree Strength Insures Peace

U. S. Envoy, Yugoslav Chief Talk 5 Hours

BLED, Yugoslavia, Aug. 26 (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's diplomatic troubleshooter, said today that he and Premier Marshal Tito had agreed the surest way to avoid war is to develop military strength in their countries.

Homeward bound after his unsuccessful effort to settle the British-Iranian oil dispute, Harriman expressed his views at a news conference. He had a five-hour talk yesterday with Tito and top-ranking members of the Yugoslav politburo.

Agree On One War Danger

Harriman said that he and Tito were agreed also upon another major point—that "one of the principal dangers of war lies in miscalculation by the Kremlin of reaction of Western countries, especially in the United States, to local aggression."

He expressed hope and belief that the events in Korea may furnish a lesson to Moscow "that practically all the United Nations are opposed to aggression."

Harriman said he and Tito "naturally discussed the Kremlin and its tactics, and Stalin."

"I was struck by the similarity of our views," he said.

He quoted Tito as saying—as he has in several speeches—that an attack upon Yugoslavia could not be localized. Asked whether he agreed, Harriman said: "I did not dispute the statement."

Yugoslavia's Needs Discussed

He said he had talked over with Tito and his top lieutenants Yugoslavia's various needs, both economic and military. He was asked whether Yugoslav officials are satisfied with the amount of military equipment the United States is supplying.

Harriman smiled: "No country is ever satisfied with the amount of military equipment it has."

He declined to say whether the question of Yugoslavia becoming a member of the Atlantic defense system had been raised. He emphasized however, that no conditions on the question of American assistance were involved in the discussions.

'Lung' Parachuted To Ill Korean Vet Aboard Troopship

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26 (AP)—A B-17 bomber successfully parachuted a portable chest respirator today to the aid of a critically-ill Korean war veteran aboard a troopship about 1,000 miles off the California coast.

The respirator, in two parachuted packages, fell in the turbulent waters and was picked up by crew members in lifeboats.

Coast Guard Pilot Lt. Robert L. Lawlis said the homeward-bound transport Aiken Victory identified the stricken soldier as Cpl. James A. Williams, 22, Brooklyn, N. Y.

He said the ship radioed that the 125-pound "lung" was received in good working order, but that Williams' condition was still extremely critical.

Radio messages from the ship last night said Williams had suffered an attack of either polio or meningitis.

Senators Plan To Hit Gamblers In Pocketbooks

Crime Probers Write Blistering Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Senators working on different fronts are aiming heavy blows at overlords and their subjects in the big time gambling world.

The Senate Crime Investigating Committee already has charged that organized gambling is the source of vicious interstate and international crime, including the illegal narcotics traffic.

The committee, headed by Sen. O'Conor (D-Md), is writing another blistering report—its final one—calling for a federal crackdown on underworld figures. The report is expected to contain some pointed comment on certain local law enforcement. It has until midnight Friday to complete it.

Pocketbooks Are Target

On another front, the Senate Finance Committee, using a double-barreled section of the huge new tax bill, is taking careful aim at gamblers' pocketbooks.

This is a section to (a) levy heavy new taxes on the gambler's rich harvest and (b) require him to file detailed tax forms.

The Finance Committee, headed by Sen. George (D-Ga), has held quiet closed door huddles with federal authorities concerning fine points of the section, but is silent on whether it plans even tougher language than the House proposed.

Touchy Subject

The section is a touchy one. The House Ways and Means Committee itself pointed out in an official report that federal taxes on wagering sometimes come under fire on grounds that "Congress "is in effect sanctioning" an underworld activity.

The House committee rejected that argument, however. It declared in a report to the House that "since its inception the federal income tax has applied without distinction to income from illegal as well as legal activities."

Doctors Say New Drug Checks Meningitis

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) — The antibiotic terramycin brings rapid recoveries from meningitis, two physicians report in the Journal of Pediatrics.

Meningitis is an inflammatory disease of membranes of the brain or spinal cord, or both.

The drug brought complete recovery in 14 cases or cerebro-spinal meningitis, sometimes within six days, said Drs. Archibald L. Hoyne and Emmanuel R. Riff of Cook County Contagious Disease Hospital.

This form of meningitis often is epidemic among children. Until sulfa drugs were developed, about half the victims always died.

Paratrooper Falls To His Death During War Games

FORT BRAGG, N. C., Aug. 26 (AP)—Paratroopers today linked up with the 43rd and 28th Infantry Divisions and prepared a knockout blow against an enemy aggressor which will end the two-week Carolina war games tomorrow.

The U. S. Ninth Air Force dominated the skies as 1,000 paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division jumped today to join the 5,000 who jumped yesterday in Exercise Southern Pine, the biggest training maneuver since World War II.

A paratrooper today became the first man to die in combat. It was the 14th death in the games, the other 13 being from non-combat causes.

The dead paratrooper was Pfc. Salvador J. Camarena, 20, Los Angeles. An airborne officer said his life would have been saved by an emergency parachute if he had 25 more feet in which to fall. The reserve 'chute was beginning to open when he struck the ground after a fall of 1,200 feet. He was a mail clerk with the headquarters company of the 82nd Airborne Division and had some undelivered letters in his pocket when he made his plunge.

Lt. Gen. John Hodge, director of the games, said the 43rd and 28th Divisions, which will join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European defense force in Europe this fall, got "tremendously valuable" field experience.

Report Planes Over Kaesong, Coastal Cities

No Official Reply Made To Ridgway

TOKYO, Monday, Aug. 27 (AP)—Red China accused the United States today of new land and air violations of the neutral Korean truce talk zone and charged that American warplanes flew over the Shanghai area, Tsingtao and other Chinese coastal cities.

Peiping radio said in an English language broadcast, "the frenzied aggressive actions of the American Air Force toward China are obviously in coordination with its murderous actions in Kaesong (the truce talk site).

"It is now still more apparent that the American government deliberately wants to put an end to the peace negotiations with war."

There was no immediate comment from Allied headquarters.

The sudden barrage of charges broadcast by the Peiping radio climaxed a flood of propaganda attacks saying it was "inconceivable" that the Korean armistice talks could be resumed unless the United States revised its "contemptible and savage attitude."

Official Red Reply Awaited

The Reds themselves broke off the talks Aug. 23, but accused the United States of scheming to wreck the armistice effort.

They still, however, had not given any official reply to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's message of Saturday. In it he called their earlier series of charges "malicious falsehoods," but expressed willingness to resume the truce talks at any time.

The Peiping radio, which serves as the major Communist mouthpiece, quoted a dispatch from a Chinese Red news agency correspondent in Kaesong as saying 21 American and South Korean "plainclothesmen" Saturday morning invaded the Panmunjom zone near Kaesong and tried to "murder" Red military police. The Red correspondent said they were "repulsed before attaining their objective."

Later the same day, he said, seven American planes flew over Kaesong.

No Attacks Charged

In another dispatch datelined Peiping, the radio said American planes flew over the coastal areas of Shantung, Chekiang and Kiangsu Provinces of the China mainland last Thursday and Saturday.

It detailed several alleged incursions by one to five planes but did not charge any attacks. The flights, it said, were further intended to disrupt the Korean armistice conferences.

The Reds broke off the talks Thursday, they said, because an Allied plane had bombed and strafed Kaesong the night of Aug. 22 in an attempt to "murder" the Red negotiators.

This charge Gen. Ridgway branded a lie and a frameup from the start.

THOMAS, W. Va. — The first traffic death in Tucker County since 1949 claimed the life of a 33-year-old Thomas man Saturday night about 7 o'clock when the car he was riding crashed on a mountain road between Thomas and Parsons.

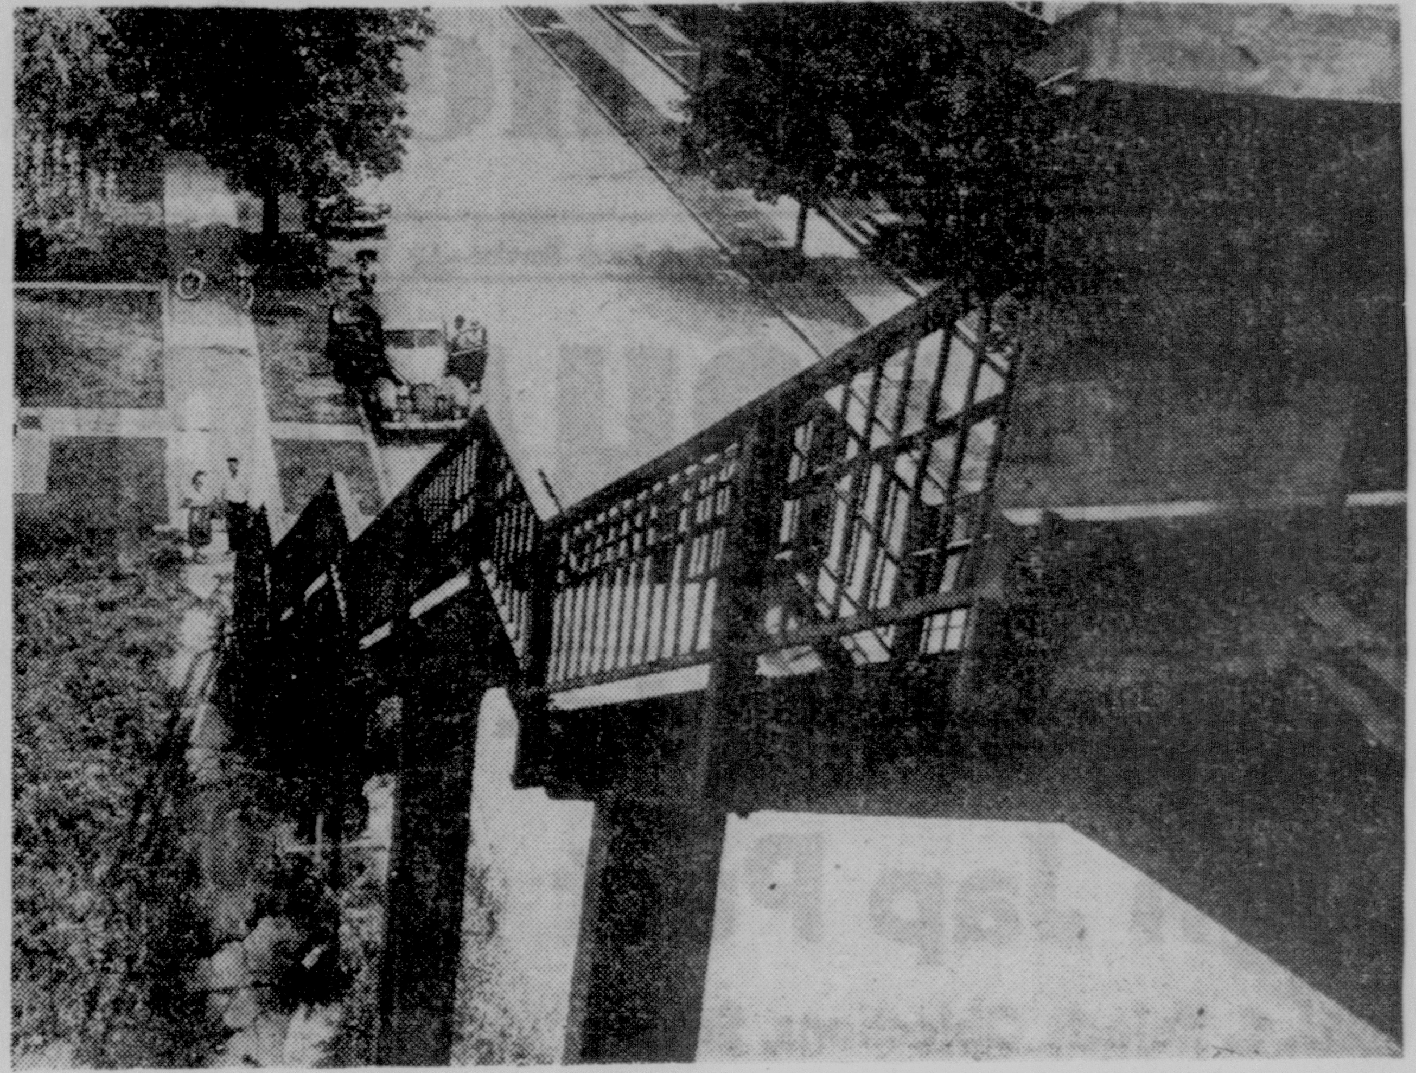
Keyser's Campaign On Speeders Continues

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 26—The city police drive on automobile speeders has improved conditions here, according to Chief of Police Claude Martin.

The campaign was started early in August. Since that time 14 drivers have been arrested and each given the minimum fine of $10.

The police are not giving up the drive, as Mayor Chester J. Compton made it clear that it is to be continued. The offenses have been on South Main, West Piedmont, St. Cloud and South Mineral streets, each of these thoroughfares being long and straight.



STEPS TO BRIDGE — This is the stairway leading from the deck sidewalk of the new Potomac River bridge between McCoole and Keyser, W. Va., to the sidewalk on Keyser's Maple Avenue. The stairway includes 68 steps and four landings. The steps are metal and will provide an outlet for citizens of the North End of Keyser to get to the business area at times when the Main Street railroad crossing will be blocked by trains. Residents say this customarily occurs from four to six times daily and for periods of from 40 minutes to better than an hour. An idea of the height of the bridge can be gained by noting the size of the man and woman on the sidewalk near the steps. These steps now are closed to pedestrian travel as are the ends of the bridge to prevent persons from walking there. Previously the bridge had been open to citizens to walk on the structure so they could see what it is like. However, some persons spoiled this privilege for the general public by tossing objects from the bridge to the street below and by breaking the reenforcement metal for concrete railing posts and throwing them onto roofs and the street. The sidewalk barricade will not be removed until the bridge is ready to be turned over to the public as a thoroughfare.

Finan Named To Legion Post

Thomas B. Finan, this city, was elected judge advocate of the Maryland Department, American Legion, Saturday at the state convention in Baltimore.

Edward P. Kahl, of Oakland, was elected vice commander of the Mountain District of the Legion. Finan is currently commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Benjamin L. Wolfson, a Legionnaire for 20 years, was elected state commander.

Wolfson, a 56-year-old Baltimore attorney, defeated J. Nelson Tribby of Baltimore, 619 to 286, in orderly and uneventful balloting.

The election climaxed the final business session of the department's four-day convention.

Paul B. Milburn, of Baltimore was named treasurer, the Rev. Kenneth C. Buker, pastor of the Cheverly Christian Church, Prince Georges County, chaplain; Lawrence Mummert, Clear Spring, Washington county, historian, and Raymond N. Pollock, Sr., Baltimore, sergeant-at-arms.

The convention voted down a proposed constitutional amendment to give an equal vote to all posts in the election of area commanders. Each post now casts a vote for area commanders in proportion to the size of its membership.

Vandalism Case Hearing Set

Defense attorneys for four Westernport youths charged with a series of fires, explosions and other acts of vandalism on mining property said that Tuesday, September 4, has been tentatively set as the date for a hearing in the cases.

The attorneys also said they would ask that the cases be heard before a jury. This brings up the question of a jury panel. Court attaches say the panel of petit jurors from the last term of court will likely be recalled.

The four accused youths are to be tried on information presented to the court by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher. The defense lawyers had asked that this procedure be followed.

Associate Judge George Henderson will preside at the hearings due to Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris being disqualified as his brother Lewis Harris, is one of the property owners whose places were damaged during the various incidents of the past year or so.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

The Hard-Luck Baroness

Charles Lindberg was the first to fly the Atlantic alone from New York to Paris nonstop in 1927. A couple of Englishmen had previously taken a short cut from Labrador or Newfoundland to Ireland. Then everybody got into the act. Admiral Byrd tried it, and, if it hadn't been for Bernt Balchen setting the ship down on the beach on the fringe of France, would never have made it. Phil Payne, managing editor of the New York Mirror, at the last minute jumped aboard the Old Glory, heading for Rome, and nothing further was heard of the plane or crew.

John Wheeler

The next year it became co-educational, and the first woman to make it, according to my recollection, was Amelia Earhart, before she studied flying, herself, and became a first-class pilot in her own right. She was irritated because some ungallant correspondent reported she rode along "like a sack of potatoes" which would get just as wet as the guy steering the craft if it fell into the drink. She was later lost without a trace on an attempted flight around the world.

The Big Brass of the New York Times foregather in a private lunch room in the air-conditioned building every day and usually have a distinguished guest whose brain they try to pick. Occasionally I have been invited to come along as a kabitzer, and this happened one noon when women got into the act of flying the Atlantic. I was introduced to a beautiful Swedish lady named Baroness von Blixen Finecke, who expected to take off as a lone passenger in a few days in an attempt to cross the ocean without touching it to her homeland. The reason for my presence was to discuss the purchase of the story of her experiences. I did a double take and thought she should be starred by Ziegfield instead of risking her pretty neck in such a hazardous undertaking.

"Why," I asked, "do you want to try this? Leave it to some homelier woman."

She smiled.

"Do you really wish to know?" she asked.

"I suppose it is the publicity," I replied, "but you tell me."

"All right, I will," she said. "My husband is a big-game hunter in Africa, and he takes out groups to chase lions, tigers, and elephants. Ernest Hemingway made one safari with him. I am so damned bored listening to all the chatter around our place about the animals slain and the boasting of the suckers I thought I would try something else.' As you can judge, she spoke excellent English.

I questioned her no further, for I agreed with her. In fact I have been reading a newspaper series recently by an intrepid Nimrod which made me seek a remedy for nausea that I was afraid might develop into chronic stomach ulcers. The trouble is the "sportsman" with a white hunter at his elbow always survives to write of his narrow escapes and show his pictures. It reminds me of a remark Bruce Barton made when we returned from Europe after an extended tour. He called up almost as soon as we docked and said.

"Esther and I want to come to see you tonight, before you get a chance to develop your pictures."

To return to our heroine, she went to dinner with me one night so we could complete the details of the deal, and we visited the Stork Club where we met James Mollison, the English pilot who would fly the Atlantic in a dinner coat at the drop of a champagne glass and once did. Bugs Baer, always interested in beauty and aviation in the order named, joined us. I explained the purpose of the meeting, and he was so impressed by her he remarked,

"Why dont' you change the routine and fly the Atlantic upside down?"

Actually he didn't believe she had any intention of trying it, and, as it turned out, she didn't take off, for the pilot, the cad, sneaked away one morning and left her, claiming he was afraid to carry the extra weight, although she didn't weigh more than 115 pounds soaking wet, if I am any judge. He fell into the ocean about 18 miles off the coast of Ireland having run out of gasoline and was pulled out by some fishermen.

So the Baroness was left on the beach, and became very sad. She finally went home and I had a cable she was planning a trip around the world in a racing car, offering reports of her adventures on the road. The next I heard she was killed in an accident in Iraq. She should have gone to Hollywood, gotten a job in the movies, and married Ali Khan.

Loans Made to Residents of Nearby Towns

There's more to giving good telephone service than working high on a pole or manning a switchboard. Good telephone service goes much deeper than that. It's a spirit, a tradition.

The people who make telephone service good are well-trained, efficient, conscientious employees. But more than that, they are alert, active citizens, good people to have around in times like these.

Telephone people have always given of their time and talents in community affairs and in church work. Today, because of their special training, they are busy with the problems of Civil Defense, instructing in first aid, serving in air-raid warning centers.

Yes, telephone people "have a date"—wherever there's a citizen's job to be done.

Good telephone service, good telephone people—the nation can be thankful for both.

Farouk And A Free Press

The treatment in the U.S. press of King Farouk of Egypt may inspire an official protest from the government of that country. Life magazine has been banned in Egypt since April, 1950, because of its coverage of Farouk's activities. Time and Newsweek were removed from pubic sale in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan area in January of that year as the result of stories about the King's romance with 16-year-old Marriman Sadek.

About all that the State Department can do after receiving protests on U. S. press coverage of the activities of foreign rulers is to point out that the Washington government is not responsible for the quality nor the purposes of the American press. In the past the Department has indicated that a suitable means of redress might be suit for libel.

This was true as long as 160 years ago, when a prosecutor said of Cobbett, publisher of a Philadelphia newspaper, in 1791: "He has ransacked our language for terms of unsatisfactory reputation and for the basest accusations against every ruler and distinguished character in France and Spain with whom we chance to have any intercourse . . . in brief, he braves his recognizance and the law." But the grand jury refused to indict.

Perhaps the best statement of the State Department position is recorded in a letter from the Chief of Western European Affairs to Poland in 1933: "It is always a cause for regret when private publishers print articles which may be offensive to the government or people of a friendly nation, but the publication of articles containing allegations or expressions of opinion, however unwarranted they may be, is not under our Constitution subject to executive control. This applies to articles reflecting on the Government of the United States or its officials as well as to those which refer to foreign governments or officials."

A proposed Convention of Freedom of Information in the United Nations would bar from the press anything which a government considers likely to "injure the feelings of a national of a state." Carroll Binder, editor of the Minneapolis Tribune editorial page and U. S. delegate to the committee drafting the proposed treaty, has consistently fought its restrictive terms.

Opposing a "considerable section of the American press" which proposes non-participation in further UN debate on the subject, Binder argues for full support internationally of the American view: "A nation which believes in its free institutions and is determined to preserve them must put up a fight for them whenever they are under attack."

American newspapers and magazines have been censored or withdrawn from sale for printing the facts of the romance between Mrs. Wallis W. Simpson and the then King of England, for opinion and reportage on the governments of Hitler's Germany, Mussolini's Italy, Stalin's Russia, and Peron's Argentina. Whenever formal protest has been made, the State Department has replied that this government is not responsible for its press. In 1937 the State Department had to inform the government of Germany that remarks of Mayor La Guardia of New York should not be interpreted as setting forth the "attitude" of the U. S. government.

The RFC's Slimy Trail

Upon reading both the majority and minority reports of the investigation into the affairs of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, most persons will wonder why the Democratic members tried so hard to keep the Republicans from making public their own findings. Nor will they discover much excuse for Chairman Fulbright's postscript in which regrets are expressed that the minority statement has to be "printed at public expense."

The two reports, while using different language, are as one in voicing the conclusion that the RFC had fallen prey to "an influence ring with White House contacts." Both say the charges, which President Truman called "asinine," were fully substantiated. Both find it was an "accepted practice" among borrowers to seek entree to the RFC by means of a Democratic National Committee introduction.

What causes Mr. Fulbright to call the minority report "scurrilous" is undoubtedly the direct personal reference made therein to the President and Chairman Boyle of the Democratic National Committee.

These two leaders, the Republicans declare, have "transferred Pendergast politics to the national level" and as a result of their activities morality in government "had declined to the lowest ebb in the nation's history."

If it is this interpretation of affairs to which the majority members object, they are unduly sensitive and altogether too anxious to protect Mr. Truman's reputation. Those Americans who are concerned by revelations of the Administration's standards of ethics will not consider the minority report "scurrilous" or or even immoderate.

Unclean Hands At Yalta

The eight Republican MacArthur investigators who term Yalta a "great tragedy" are right. The secret protocol on China is an ugly chapter in American diplomatic history. It was at Yalta that the United States sacrificed principle for expediency, and this shameful fact should not be overlooked in the controversy over whether (or by whom) the U. S. was betrayed.

In the Atlantic Charter, later adhered to in principle by Russia, the signatories agreed to seek no territorial aggrandizement from the war. Yalta violated that by giving Russia the other half of Sakhalin Island and the Kuriles. A promise publicly made to the people of the world was secretly violated.

In the Cairo declaration, moreover, Roosevelt and Churchll had proposed complete restoration of Chinese sovereignty over Manchuria. But at Yalta they also dishonored that promise by giving Russia special privileges in Manchuria, including what amounted to half ownership of two railroads. This act was also a betrayal of America's traditional Open Door policy.

That this deal gave away the territorial rights of this country's ally, China, without China's knowledge or consent is another of its shocking aspects. The Yalta protocol stated that Roosevelt would undertake to make Chiang give Russia what FDR promised. This is not the sort of role in the world that is consistent either with American principles or the national interest.

The world picture might be no less dark today if Roosevelt had made no such deal at Yalta, but American hands would be cleaner.

How To Keep Well

Living With Our Viruses

Influenza and polio viruses have been battling man for centuries. These microorganisms have dealt many lethal blows and have been responsible for numerous fearful epidemics. However, they never have fought an all-out war against humans because in such a conflict the organisms would perish also if they killed off their meal ticket.

Nature has not made the battle as one-sided as it may seem. The human race is endowed with a unique protective device known as "immunity." The more we are bombarded by viruses, the more calloused we become. Whenever a parasite lives with us long enough this defensive mechanism goes into operation and the process may be likened to the adage, "familiarity breeds contempt." Both the parasite and the human host sign a truce whereby the germs are permitted to survive if they keep their place and cause a minimum of trouble. The common cold is somewhat of an exception because the immunity produced by one bout with the virus is so short-lived.

In the old yellow fever days in the West Indies the natives appeared unaffected by this malady. They were bitten by mosquitoes and undoubtedly were infected with the yellow fever virus, yet the diesase never assumed serious proportions among the inhabitants. But when the Europeans arrived the parasites found strange bedfellows and the white men died like flies. The same condition arose among the Indians in this country when they came up against the smallpox virus brought in by the whites. The affliction spread like wild fire among the red men and killed them instead of keeping them alive but poxed.

Polio is not a new ailment, so far as we are concerned. We dread it, yet there is considerable evidence to show that most of us are immune or partly immune. When a child in a large family comes down with a paralyzing attack of the disease, examination of the remainder of the family may disclose that the intestinal tract of all the brothers and sisters carries the causative virus for a week or two. Those with partial immunity develop subclinical polio, the only manifestations of which are cold and sore throat. The completely immune go about as tho the organism had not been contacted.

Another example of immunity and the tolerable equilibrium between man and virus was cited by F. M. Burnet in a recent issue of Scientific American. He contrasted epidemics of polio that occurred on the islands of Malta and St. Helena. Both were serious but in the Malta outbreak 90 per cent of the paralyzed patients were under 5 years of age, whereas in the St. Helena epidemic the older age group was hit along with the youngsters. The clew as to why this happened lies in the polio history of the two places. On Malta, a few cases have been reported every year, indicating that the disease was rife over a long period of time and that viruses of low virulence had been disseminated among the population for many years. In 1943 a more virulent polio virus appeared and the older children and adults who had a certain degree of immunity withstood the onslaught. Infants had not acquired this protection and were hard hit.

The polio background of St. Helena was different; there had been no record of the diesase for over 20 years. This was virgin soil for the virus and the new invaders struck with paralyzing effect in all age groups.

HEART AND HOUSEWORK

Mrs. T. writes: Should a woman with enlarged rheumatic heart and leakage be expected to do all her housework?

REPLY

This depends upon how much work there is to do. It is a good policy to stop short of symptoms such as breathlessness and palpitation.

ANGINA

P. L. writes: Are angina and angina pectoris the same?

REPLY

The word angina has two meanings: sore throat from any cause and a cramplike pain. Ludwig's angina and Vincent's angina are examples of the first meaning. When the word is used to indicate chest pain, the physician usually refers to angina pectoris.

GALL BLADDER AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. T. writes: Is it risky for a woman to become pregnant who gets attacks of gall bladder when she eats improperly or becomes excited?

REPLY

Not risky but pregnancy will be an added burden on the system and may have the same effect as excitement or dietary indiscretions.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Children Are Destroyed By The Narcotic Peddler; Narcotic Traffic Is Intricate And Skillful; Bureau Of Narcotics Is A Model Agency

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Harry J. Anslinger, the Treasury Department's commissioner of narcotics and the U. S. representative on the United Nations Narcotic Commission. In international circles Mr. Anslinger is regarded as the greatest living authority on the world narcotics traffic. On June 30, 1951, in the U. S. House of Representatives, Congressman Gordon Canfield said: "The nations of the world regard him as the world's No. 1 authority on the subject.")

WASHINGTON — The narcotic peddler does not kidnap your children; he destroys them.

In extreme distress, parents brought their 16-year-old boy to my office. The lad quivered like the leaves of the aspen. He was suffering the dreaded withdrawal syndrome of drug addiction. He was one of those who use bravado to gain admission to the delinquent gang.

"Tell me where you get heroin," I said. "I will send you to the hospital for a cure."

We used an undercover agent to buy from the "pusher," who led us to the wholesale peddler. Then by progressive steps we graduated to one of the big traffickers who controlled a nation-wide syndicate. We trapped him like a rat. It took men, endless patience, long hours of vigilant surveillance, and infinite detailed corroboration. Now, where did he get his supply? from a country which signed the Geneva Convention of 1931 to limit the manufacture of narcotic drugs to medical needs, and then estimated its heroin consumption at 10 times its actual medical needs. Even with elaborate reporting and checking by international bodies, the padded estimates escaped the attention of the United Nations control machinery.

We first picked up the international leakage when the Los Angeles county sheriff turned over to us a peddler with ten ounces of heroin. He got it from a ship's steward traveling between New York and Trieste. In Trieste, the Allied military authorities had inadvertently repealed narcotic laws. Diversion in Italy provided a ready source, with the connivance of the Mafia. Wheels within whels. The narcotic traffic is intricately intrlaced and skillfully interwoven.

We have 195 agents; less than two per cent of the federal enforcement personnel. Thse men account for 10 per cent of the fedral prison population, and their convictions average 95 per cent. Our force is about as large as that of the police department in a place the size of Tampa, Florida.

The whole world regards the U.S. Treasury Departments' Bureau of Narcotics as a model. The work is dangerous, nerve racking, round-the-clock, yet there is something which makes crusaders of all who engage in it. They respond beyond the call of duty.

Our enemy is artfully cunning. The seller is satisfied, and the user won't tell. There are no complaints as in crimes like robberies and kidnapping. Not one witnss before the Senate Crime Committee would reveal his source of supply, through fear of consequences. We work completely undercover, and must come up with the corpus delicti (evidence)at the conclusion of the investigation. We are severely handicapped by court decisions relating to search and seizure, and must rely on state prosecution in many cases.

We need a law which will put the peddler away longer than 16 months. The House of Reprsentatives passed such a bill. It is pending in the Senate. These cruel exploiters deserve greater punishment. If we had 1,000 agents—without a mandatory sentence law—we would still be on a treadmill; a merry-go-round (no reference to this column). Recently a notorious trafficker with five narcotic-law convictions received a suspended sentence.

Harold Normandale is an addict with over 100 arrests, including one for rape, murder, and many for narcotics. He peddled narcotics to take care of his own addiction. This type creates addicts. There are thousands like him. They have no sense of moral responsibility. They would, without hesitation, shoot heroin into the radiant veins of your 15-year-old daughter, and send her into prostitution to get money for the heroin they pump into her innocent body, yet such peddlers get off with suspended sentences.

The addict must be quarantined in the city hospitals. Baltimore has the distinction of being the first city to set aside 10 beds for the disintoxication and rehabitation of drug addicts.

Limitation on manufacture of narcotic drugs and control of international distribution have been accomplished through eight treaties. The United Nations is now working on a plan to limit opium production to world medical needs. This is the goal I have been working for at every international conference I have attended since 1931. Such an agreement would be the greatest achievement so far toward suppressing the abuse of narcotic drugs throughout the world.

Present sources of our illicit narcotics are Italy, Iran, Turkey, India, Greece, Communist China, and Mexico. Mexico is doing good work with airplanes and troops to suppress illicit opium cultivation. Other source countries please take note.

Reports of large-scale drug addiction throughout the world reflect a post-war phenomenon, and a jittery world.

About 1947 we had the traffic under control. Prison wardens reporten an absence of addicted criminals. The population of our Lexington Narcotic Hospital had fallen to such an extent that a move was under way to abolish the hospital. I urged all to stand by and to prepare. We could feel it coming here and abroad. Warnings went unheeded. In the past two years it rolled in like an engulfing surf.

Finality in dealing with the international traffic must be reached. Its continued existence and evergreen activity is a sad rflection on the world's lack of joint determination to be done with these plague carriers whose god is auri sacra fames (the accursed thirst for gold).

Where To Work

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLOUCESTER, Mass., August 26—Many young people are now wondering where it is best for them to get a job and settle down. This year they have a choice of several jobs and can pick and choose.

Avoid Big Cities

I advise against taking a position in one of the biggest cities; certainly not in one of the 12 cities which Washington says is liable to be bombed in case of World War III. As for settling down and raising a family in one of these 12 cities, this seems almost suicidal to me. Here is the list: New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Baltimore, St. Louis, Boston, Pittsburgh, Washington, D. C., and San Francisco.

A study of the latest atomic bomb information leads me to believe that about 60 miles from the center of such a big city is the safest location. You will then be both free from bombing and free from the radio waves; also you should not suffer from the refugee problem which could be very serious to the suburbs of these 12 big cities.

Small Cities Look Good

Not only are small cities better places to bring up a family, but they offer the best long-run business opportunities. Before the present day of high taxes and high living expenses the big city offered attractions to the young man who wanted to make money quickly; but not now.

Today, smaller places offer the best long-run, money-making opportunities. Real estate in the above cities is now at top prices; but real estate in most smaller cities could double in price. Some day the manufacturers who are now in these 12 cities will flock to the smaller places. The time to buy small city property is now before the rush begins.

When To Buy Or Sell

The time to buy most property is when no one wants it. Such opportunities always exist somewhere—but few persons are wise enough to take advantage of such bargains. The time to sell property is when someone else wants it badly. But there again most people will not sell then. The average man will not use his brain or else lacks courage when he buys or sells.

Here is another thought: Buy land by the acre just outside any good city and later sell it by the foot. But buy it on the right side of that city—that is, in the direction where the community is growing. Every city—large and small—is growing best in some one direction where the best houses are being built.

Better For Small Businessmen

A small city is sure to offer opportunities for young businessmen. "A small toad is better off in a small puddle"—he is apt to get drowned in a big pool. In the same way a small businessman may get drowned easily in some big city where he may be forced to pay tribute to racketeers or be bled by crime gangs.

In the smaller cities any young man of good character can join the local chamber of commerce and one of the service clubs and work up to be a director thereof. This he cannot do in one of the above 12 cities. He can buy stock in a local bank of smaller cities and perhaps become a director thereof. His wife can become active in the women's club and the Parent-Teacher Association.

Have A Church Affiliation

I never feel so lonesome as when I go into a big city church. It is not the fault of the church; I do not blame the members for having no interest in me. The same applies to the Y.M.C.A.'s of the biggest cities. But a small city church always makes me feel at home.

Certainly no one should attend any church just to help himself in business or even to get acquaintances. Yet, we all must have some social life and it is best to find our friends at a church rather than anywhere else. That is where I found the girl with whom I have lived 50 happy years! Moreover, this was in Gloucester, Massachusetts, where I am writing this column. It was then a small city, while Wellesley, where I started in business, had, at that time, only about 5,000 inhabitants

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Corliss Lamont On Russia

In a pamphlet which is being circulated, Dr. Corliss Lamont of Columbia University, son of the late senior partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., makes this point:

". . . Morally Communist parties are on an obviously higher plane than Fascist parties in that they have such aims as (1) complete racial democracy and non-discrimination; (2) full equality between the sexes; (3) educational and cultural opportunity for everyone; (4) a planned socialist economy of abundance on behalf of all the people; (5) the attainment of political democracy when the transitional need for dictatorship has passed; (6) the teaching of an inclusive and integrated philosophy of life; and (7) the achievement of international peace. In spite of the colossal blunder and act of international immorality on the part of the Communist-controlled North Koreans in committing aggression against South Korea, I am convinced that Communist parties are on the whole desirous of seeing world peace established.

"In the above seven points I have not tried to cover all the basic differences between the Communists and Fascists; but my summary indicates the relevance of the remark once made by John Strachey, now minister of war in the British Labor Government, namely that communism and fascism are like two express trains going in opposite directions. The notion that communism and fascism are fundamentally the same is a dangerous untruth . . ."

Dr. Lamont has for many years been one of the principal apologists in the United States for Soviet Russia and its creed. He has long been associated with the national council of American-Soviet friendship. That per se does not make of him a Communist or even a Communist sympathizer. He calls himself a Socialist and once wrote a book entitled, "You Might Like Socialism."

The quotation above contains several falsehoods by implication. For instance, any statement that Soviet Russia practices racial democracy is false on the record. As regards the Jews, the Volga Germans and several Asiatic races, Soviet Russia has practiced genocide with a completeness unparalleled even by Hitler. On this subject, the reader might find it advantageous to read Professor Solomon M. Schwarz's book, "The Jews in the Soviet Union," published by the Syracuse University Press. The elimination of the middle class and the intellectuals from such countres as Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Lithuania, Latvia and even the Ukraine and their exile to Siberia, the Karakum Desert and Turkestan is one of the most horrible stories in history.

When Dr. Lamont suggests that Communist parties practice non-discrimination, he does not, of course, include the persecutions of religions, which, to most human beings, is as offensive as genocide against races. All religions, Roman Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, with the single exception of the Orthodox church, have been obliterated. Some worship is permitted, but religious groups must have schools to teach their philosophy, to train their clergy and to prepare their children. These are forbidden, as is the use of such languages as Hebrew and Latin.

The Orthodox church is a political arm of the Soviet government, directly controlled by the state and employed to assist in the extirpation of other religious groups. It is under law, political control.

It is interesting to note that wherever a Communist party takes over a country, it fights religion and imprisons and sometimes kills professional clergymen. This pattern has recently been adopted in Soviet China.

Dr. Lamont says that in Communist countries there is "educational and cultural opportunity for everyone." As one long associated with a leading American university, Dr. Lamont ought to be ashamed to call a system which provides for a state determination of what men may know and believe, education. Surely, there can be no "free inquiry," which is the essence of education, when the oligarchy can say what is right about philosophy, history, biology, art, and every avenue of thought, research nad expression.

What about the Lysenko controversy in which the government decided what is true about genetics? What about Zhdanov deciding what music should be written by Shostakovich, Prokofieff and Khatchaturian? What about the elimination of all so-called "cosmopolitans" from the writing profession?

Surely, Dr. Lamont, who has been an advocate in the cause of Russia, has not been driven from Columbia University, nor has he been forbidden to write in favor of our enemy and in opposition to the stated policy of his government. Does he know and can he name one anti-Marxist who teaches in any university in Soviet Russia?

Each one of Dr. Lamont's points, except full equality of the sexes, can be demonstrated to be special pleading. The question arises: To what end is this done?

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Thunderheads

WASHINGTON

The storm signals are out again all the way around the world, from Kaesong to Tehran. In the long view, moreover, even breakdown of the Korean truce talks is quite likely to prove less grave than breakdown of the oil talks between the British and Iranians.

The British government is reported to hope that W. Averell Harriman may still manage to patch up some sort of solution of the oil problem. The American policy-markers' feelings about Harriman are the feelings of a busted horse-player about an extreme long shot that may just possibly save the day by beating the favorite in the eighth race. But since miracles cannot be relied on to occur with any regularity, the coarse facts of the Iranian situation had better be faced.

First, if the government of Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh cannot be persuaded to accept a sensible oil settlement, the next step will probably be an effort to make a more rational government in Tehran. Delay, self-delusion and other follies have caused the position in Tehran to deteriorate so much that this effort must now be made the worst imaginable auspices. The British can no longer usefully participate. Thus the whole onus of what will necessarily seem a rather crude intervention in Iranian politics will have to be borne by the Americans. There will be serious disorders, perhaps bloodshed. And the effort may well fail.

May Move Troops

Second, if it proves impossible to get an oil settlement by replacing Dr. Mossadegh, the British decision to move troops to occupy Abadan Island (the site of the vital oil refinery) will come into operation. One of these reporters predicted long since that the British would be forced to this decision, if only as an object lesson to the Egyptians and others who are longing to imitate the Iranian experiments with twisting the lion's tail. In the lull secured by Averell Harriman's efforts, it leaked out in London that the decision to move troops if need be had actually been taken by Prime Minister Attlee and Winston Churchill in bi-partisan consultation.

Third, if the British move their parachute brigade from Cyprus to Abadan, there will certainly be hard fighting, at least for a while, although the fact that Abadan is an island should prevent a recurrence of the Korean pattern.

Fourth, the Soviets are quite likely to take a British troop movement into South Iran as a pretext for sending Russian troops into North Iran under the vague clauses of the 1921 treaty. Or if the Soviets hold their hands, the Iranian nationalists are even more likely to be replaced at Tehran by the Communist Tudeh party—for the snaky existing structure of the Iranian government can hardly hold together after the shock of a British landing in the south. Meanwhile, the rest of the Middle East will be plunged into sympathetic convulsions.

Fifth, and finally, whether we like it or not, America is going to have to stick by Britain in this hideous business in the UN and elsewhere. American strategic-political interests in the Middle East are quite as important as British economic interests. In short, we are in the mess too, up to our necks.

Harriman Helped

Under the circumstances, prayers for Averell Harriman's success seem to be in order. So are bouquets for what he has accomplished already, for it must be understood that when the Harriman mission to Iran was first despairingly proposed by Assistant Secretary of State George McGhee, the position seemed even more hopeless than it does today. Most of the American policy makers actually opposed the project at that time, on the ground, so to speak, that there was no use throwing a good Harriman after bad diplomacy.

For years the British had done everything possible to produce an Iranian crisis. Then when the crisis began with the assassination of Gen. Razmara, we on the one hand did everything possible to make the British neurotic and irritable, from indulging in "I told you so" to talking behind their backs. And on the other hand, we also did everything possible to make the Iranians irrational and intractable, from giving the impression that we would prevent the British from sending troops, to beseeching Dr. Mossadegh to accept American economic aid as a great favor to us.

In the resulting circumstances, it was no wonder that Harriman was checked, as he now has been, in his effort to bring the British and Iranians together. The wonder is, rather, that he managed to achieve even a short interlude of reasonable discussion of the oil problem. It was a little short of miraculous for Harriman to accomplish anything at all. Perhaps, therefore, we may hope that he will now accomplish the larger miracle of finding a way to avoid the chain of consequences outlined above.

The Lottery

"The Lottery," a short story that first appeared in "The New Yorker," is one of those rare haunting pieces that has stuck to the ribs of everyone who has read it. It's a story in which time and geography are irrelevent. The people in it could be midwestern farmers or members of the lost tribe of Israel. It is a story that leaves large questions in your mind and, unless human nature changes which is doubtful, it could be read a hundred years from now with the same literary satisfaction and moral dissatisfaction.

John Crosby

In a very few hundred words Miss Shirley Jackson appears to be attacking tribal taboos from earliest times, intolerance of all sorts, and the persistance of human practices which are universally condemned by all reasonable members of the community. You can, in fact, read almost anything into this story, and almost everything has been read into it.

• — • — •

The original story, a little masterpiece of abbreviation, unwound slowly, leaving the reader with a mounting sense of terror and puzzlement. A lottery was to be held. Every member of the community participated. Everyone dreaded it. Nothing could be done about it simply because nothing ever had been done about it. There were murmurs of revolt that were quickly stifled by the overwhelming pressure of prior custom. All this time the reader is left entirely in the dark as to the nature of the lottery and especially the award to be made to the winner of the lottery. Only in the last few sentences does Miss Jackson reveal that the holder of the black ballot is to be stoned to death.

Translating this bitter fable of humanity—you can hardly call it inhumanity because only humans behave this way — to television was a a task, I should have predicted, quite out of reach of anyone in the business today. But it has been done twice—once last summer, once last week—with enormous success by a young producer-director named Albert McCleary. Television, of course, is a much more explicit medium than the short story, but it is McCleary's theory, a good one, that it doesn't have to be anywhere near as, explicit as a movie screen or a stage set.

Using no scenery and only the minimum of props, McCleery concentrates his cameras on faces, people who are as carefully arranged and as meaningful as ballet. It has long been my notion that television direction at its best is closer to still photography than to movies. McCleery in "The Lottery" demonstrates that a television screen can be as curt, concise and powerful as a line drawing by Toulouse-Lautrec. Some of his camera shots were just fragments of faces, sculpturesque in composition, poetic in their intensity of feeling. Acting takes second place — well, fourth place — to the director, the cameramen and the man who controls the lights.

What McCleery is doing is restoring in some measure radio's inherent virtue as a spur to the imagination of the audience. Where most television stifles and stupifies imagination, McCleery demands it of his audience, requires of them something besides passive absorption. In fact, my only objection to this fine television program was a little sermon tacked on to the end of it about the nature of superstition. Miss Jackson's story left the reader do his own sermonizing and, by such wise omission, it took in much more territory than the brief spasm of righteousness prose at the end of the television show.

• — • — •

"The Lottery" was the last of a series of eight special summer shows occupying the Fireside Theater slot on NBC (9:30 p. m. EDT Tuesdays.) Tomorrow night Fireside Theater will return to its regular bill of fare, films especially made for television in Hollywood. I imagine they'll be as depressing as ever. Hollywood — at least that part of it dedicated to TV — has yet to learn anything at all about television direction, about the size of a home screen, about the emotional atmosphere of a home group, about the depth and power of a human head, about the significance of small suggestive detail, about the mounting of mood and atmosphere by subtle lighting or about any of the techniques so splendidly demonstrated by Mr. McCleery in "The Lottery."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO THROW-INS NEEDED

MAKING one lead-throwing end-play on a deal, in order to gain a trick, is usually considered quite a nice feat. But in situations which arise once in many hundreds of hands, it is necessary to execute two throw-in plays as a means of making the contract. If you ever put over such a combination of plays, it is pretty likely to be due to having your eyes open and reading the cards clearly.

West did a careful job of playing for that tenuous contract, with all of the four suits threatening its success, after North led the club Q. He took that with the club A, laid down the diamond A and quickly noted the hopelessness of that suit, then scored the heart A, finessed the J and scored the K. Feeling almost sure of the complete count of both defenders' hands now, he led the club 7 to the K and brought forth the 8 to North's 10, meanwhile discarding the spade 6.

North was able to take in his club J, but had nothing left except spades, as West had reckoned. So throw-in number one brought a return of the spade J to the Q to be worth one trick to the declarer. To eliminate the chance that North might have the outstanding heart—though it was a million to one he would have won the earlier finesse if he did—and that South might have a spade left, West laid down the spade A, drawing a diamond discard from South.

Now came the second throw-in, a sure thing to succeed, the heart 7 being led to the Q. South, with only the diamond K-J remaining, had to lead the suit while dummy held the Q-9. That defender scored the K, for his side's fourth trick, then had to give the game trick to the Q. By wily management, West had limited each defender to two tricks.

How should South play in the grossly overbid 7-Clubs doubled if West leads the diamond 8?

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

F D C F K Q C Q H C X I H V C C Y D W H A X F
H X T Q Y D F X C G V K C H H X Q K P N A F H, N H F X Y X A Y C N U F D C T — O X U E H T W F D.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: SUNDAYS OBSERVE: THINK WHEN THE BELLS DO CHIME, 'TIS ANGELS' MUSIC—HERBERT.

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26 (INS) — Marlene Dietrich arrives next week to co-star with Clifton Webb in "The Love M,"—and if this isn't the teaming of the year—it will do until they put Jimmy Durante with Bette Davis!

Marlene Dietrich

Clifton and couple of former actors, no longer romantic favorites, who team up on a television show and are riots kidding the love stories they used to play straight.

Sol C. Siegel, the producer, isn't making any secret that 20th Century-Fox is going all out to kid the pants off television programs. Claude Binyon is writing the script for Dietrich and Webb.

• — • — •

There's a hassle on between Stanley Kramer and Oscar Hammerstein III about Myron McCormick leaving "South Pacific" to come to Hollywood to make "The Sniper" for Kramer.

The Broadway produced says McCormick has a "run of the play" contract and if he wants to take a vacation starting September 15 that's all right — but not for a movie!

It's the same kind of argument Robert Merrill got into with Rudolph Bing when he left the Metropolitan to make "Aaron Slick From Pumpkin' Crick."

• — • — •

Gossip that Betty Hutton and Norman Krasna are on the verge of patching up their broken engagement—couldn't be wronger.

I talked with Betty about her broken romance and she was a serious kid when she said:

"I'm heartbroken that many people think I acted frivolously in breaking our engagement after just five days.

"We sincerely believed we had a happy future ahead of us when we announced our engagement. But we quarreled about something so important to us that there isn't the slightest chance of ever paching things up again."

• — • — •

If Elizabeth Taylor isn't happy with her contract—and she isn't—MGM is giving her every chance to talk out her problems when she returns from making "Ivanhoe" in England.

Luscious Liz's present ticket has about a year more to run. At that time—she is going to ask for a big increase in salary plus TV rights, plus a say-so on her pictures.

That's a tall order and a lot of authority for a girl who grew from pigtails to stardom on the lot. The men who have wisely guided her career are willing to listen to what she has to say—but they are hardly likely to agree to complete submission on all her points.

Hollywood in shorts:

Rita Hayworth's bags are packed for Reno. She's going to try to slip out of town tomorrow to slip out of her marriage to Aly.

When the Gary Copers get around to making a property settlement they'll have a cool $2,000,000 to divide.

A print of the "Blue Veil" (Jane Wyman's performance is terrif') is being rushed to London to get in under the August 29 deadline when the film for the command performance will be selected.

Alan Dwan, who directed some of Gloria Swanson's big hits, visited her on the set of "Three For Bedroom C," to talk over old times.

Lisa Kirk is sending $500 to Cpl. Gene Levin, in Korea, for his song, "Letter From Mary." Lisa is recording it—and so is Gloria De Haven.

Ann Sothern posing for Harper's Bazaar in her new finery before taking off for "Philomen Complex" in New York. The Walter Langs gave a farewell party for Ann, who is torn between being sad at leaving her friends and daughter, Tish, and excited about appearing on Broadway.

Judy Canova and her husband are seeing Paris with Corinne Calvet and John Bromfield.

Coleen Gray a happy girl because she gets Barbara Bel Geddes' role in "Moon Is Blue" in the road company. Coleen flew into Hollywood for a short visit tonight and returns for rehearsals September 15.

Myrna Loy has no picture plans after "Belles On Their Toes." She's eager to get back to Washington, D. C., and her bridegroom.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Abbott To Retire From W. Md. Post

E. E. Welsh, trainmaster of the Western Maryland Railway's Hagerstown division since 1940, has been named superintendent of the division beginning Sept. 1.

He will succeed J. A. Abbott, former Cumberland-Elkins Division superintendent, who is retiring after 47 years of service.

Welsh started with the railroad at Elkins, W. Va., in 1910 as a call boy. He worked as a brakeman, conductor, yardmaster, and assistant trainmaster before going to Hagerstown in 1935 as assistant trainmaster. He is a former resident of Ridgeley and played baseball in the old P. O. M. League.

Abbott resided here until his promotion to the Hagerstown post about ten years ago.

Eight Area Soldiers Arrive From Orient

Eight area men arrived on the west coast yesterday and Saturday after military service in the Orient.

Arriving in San Francisco aboard the General John Pope were:

Cpl. Hamilton Marshall, 608 Virginia Avenue; Sgt. Gerald H. Harman, Route 4; Pfc. James H. Miller, all of Cumberland; Sgt. Robert W. Sines, Oakland; Pvt. Grover L. Tichinel, Swanton.

Reaching Seattle on the Marine Phoenix were:

Cpl. Thomas R. Douglas, 329 Williams Street, Cumberland; Sgt. Lyle F. Dawson, Route 3, and Cpl. Lloyd J. Bowser, Route 1, both Swanton.

Most of them will get 30-day furloughs and then be reassigned to units in the United States. Included in the group were 119 from Maryland.

Local Man Jailed For Giving Stepson Liquor

A Cumberland man is in the county jail because he admitted giving whisky to his 16-year-old stepson Friday evening.

He is George Benson, 41, of 1509 Lexington Avenue, who was sentenced to a fine of $100 or 30 days in jail Saturday in Police Court by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick. Benson went to jail in default of the fine, but notified Magistrate Dick he was going to appeal the ruling.

Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey, who took Benson and his stepson into custody, said they were causing a disturbance at a South End tavern when he arrived. He testified that the boy was drunk and disorderly, a charge the boy admitted in court.

Why try to hide lack of assurance by a prancing walk, when a beautiful, assured one is so easy to attain?

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Don't let your walk give you away. A dainty trot or a sly little mince always betray a lack of assurance. And a "prance" even more so! No one resorts to highfalutin steps, head posing and general flaunting of herself unless she has an almost desperate feeling of insecurity. And if she does fool anybody, she only makes him or her think she is egotistical. No one ever won admiration by imposing that impression.

Easy to Acquire

You'll never be tempted to try to cover a lack of inner confidence with an exaggerated walk if you acquire a comportment that reflects calm. And your assurance will grow and grow with each friend and admirer you gain by it!

A poised walk is so uncomplicated and simple that you'll never believe it until you try it. It's yours, if you'll just:

1. Swing your step from your hip joint, keeping your knee relaxed but not doubled up in a bend. And make your step long enough so the space between each step is the length of your foot.

2. Keep your chin level with the floor. Move your head only when there is a reason for doing so—there should be no flitting of either eyes or head.

Facade of Confidence

3. Hold your shoulders and hips still as you move. This will be easy to do if you pull up to your full height at all times. Be sure, also, to limit the movement of your hands to meaningful or useful gestures. If necessary, clasp them or keep them in your pockets until they are convinced that you mean it!

Take just these small precautions and you will give to your world a picture of serenity. Then it will come running to you. A calm haven attracts everybody!

Tomorrow: Clearing the teen skin.

State Police Experts Will Help In Use Of Speedmeter

Expert advisors of the Maryland State Police will assist local authorities in operation of the radar speedmeter recently purchased by the Mayor and Council to abolish speeding in Cumberland.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long announced Saturday he had requested aid from Col. Elmer E. Munshower, superintendent of State Police. A reply from Major Ruxton Ridgeley, executive officer, stated:

"As soon as you receive the machine, please advise us and we will immediately assign one of our corporals to assist you. In fact, I will endeavor to come to Cumberland myself and lend whatever assistance I can to this most worthy project".

Long said the visiting experienced trooper will instruct members of the Police Department on how to use the $1,015 device and help in educating motorists. Large signs warning drivers about the presence of the electro-matic machine will be posted.

Due to numerous complaints about speeding in certain areas, the commissioner added, the speedmeter will be pressed into service on the following thoroughfares:

"McMullen Boulevard, Braddock Road, Greene, Fayette and Bedford Streets, Maryland, Virginia, Baltimore and Louisiana Avenues and Williams Road at the entrance to Constitution Park." At first, however, the machine will be used on all streets.

"One of the main goals of the Police Department this month has been to control speeding over city streets. The use of the speedmeter in the near future will help to correct this problem. The instrument is absolutely accurate and economical of manpower.

"As vacation ends and school begins, it is more important than ever that reckless driving be stopped."

Bob Lemon Bags 16th Win, 2-1, After Wight Beats Tribe, 5-0

Year's Record Crowd Of 75,997 Sees Bosox And Cleveland Split

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26 (AP) — Luke Easter and Sam Chapman got the only two hits off Lefty Leo Kiely but both were home runs to give Bob Lemon and the league leading Cleveland Indians a second game 2-1 victory and a split in their doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox today.

The largest crowd of the year — 75,997 cash customers — watched Willie Wight blank the Indians, 5-0, in the opener.

The Indians made only three hits in the nightcap, but one—a single by Dale Mitchell—came off pitcher Ellis Kinder, who relieved Kiely in the eighth.

Lemon recorded his 16th triumph and his seventh in a row, but it took a sparkling rescue job by Mike Garcia to achieve it.

Garcia took over with one out in the top of the eighth after Lemon had surrendered walks to pinch hitter Charlie Maxwell and Johnny Pesky and was slugged for a run scoring single by Ted Williams. The stocky righthander then made Walt Dropo hit to Shortstop Ray Boone who started an inning-ending double play.

Garcia walked leadoff hitter Billy Goodman in the ninth but disposed of the next three men, getting Clyde Vollmer and Fred Hatfield on strikes. Box:

Ferrier Wins At Fort Wayne

Noses Out Middlecoff For $2,400 Top Prize

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 26 (AP) —Jim Ferrier, Australian playing out of San Francisco, skidded to a 71 today after shooting three straight 66's in the Fort Wayne Open Golf Tournament but it was good enough for the $2,400 first money.

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis golfing dentist, trailed Ferrier by seven strokes going onto the last nine and got back six of them for second prize of $1,800. He finished with a 270 total to Ferrier's 269.

Intermittent showers fell on the players and a gallery of about 3,000 at the Elks country club course.

Middlecoff put together a 35 and 32 for the windup, five-under-par 67, but it was overshadowed by a course record-equalling 63 by Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore. Zimmerman finished in a tenth-place tie with Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, the pro circuit's leading money winner, with a 274.

Glenn Teal of Knoxville, Tenn., who set the course record Thursday, was 12th with a 275.

Third place was a four-way tie on 271's by Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C.; Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich.; Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass., and Earl Stewart Jr., of Dallas.

Terra Alta lost the services of Mike Root, regular catcher, when he suffered a broken bone in his right ankle sliding into second base during a practice game yesterday.

In the contest at Kitzmiller, the winners collected 15 hits including Lynn Kitzmiller's two doubles and a single in five trips. The score:

Desperate Yanks Split Twin Bill With Pale Hose

New York Wins, 8-6, After 3-2 Setback

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP)—The desperate New York Yankees rolled up a 5-0 lead in the first three innings, then weathered a White Sox rally forged by three homers to take an 8-6 nightcap victory today after Chicago had won the doubleheader opener 3-2. The split left the Yanks one game behind leading Cleveland in the torrid American League pennant chase.

New York kept pace with the Indians who divided two games in Cleveland with the Boston Red Sox.

The Yankees piled up three runs in the first inning of the second game and two more in the third. But homers by Eddie Robinson, Pinch Hitter Bert Haas and Don Lenhardt nearly pulled the game out of the fire for the Sox.

Chicago also had two men on base in the last of the ninth before Allie Reynolds checked the surge.

Nellie Fox's double in the last of the ninth scoring Lenhardt was the deciding blow in the opener. A Comiskey Park crowd of 43,593 saw the twin bill which was interruped for 24 minutes by rain. Box:

Helen J. Martin, Plaintiff, vs. John C. Martin, Defendant, No. 22,180 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII for the Plaintiff, Helen J. Martin, of Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, against her husband, John C. Martin, Defendant, whose last known address was 1847 Covington Street, Baltimore, Maryland, and whose residence is unknown, two successive subpoenaes having been issued against the said John C. Martin and returned "Non Est" by the Sheriff of Baltimore City.

The bill states that on the 25th day of September, 1943, the said Helen J. Martin was married to John C. Martin, with whom she resided until November, 1949; that the said John C. Martin has declared his intention to live with her no longer and has abandoned her without any just cause or reason and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That the said Helen J. Martin and John C. Martin have had by said marriage four children who are still alive, viz: John E., born on the 16th day of January, 1944, Bonita G., born on the 26th day of January, 1945, Charles J., born on the 7th day of July, 1947, and Richard A., born on the 20th day of June, 1950, and that the said Helen J. Martin asks the guardianship and custody of the said infant child.

It is thereupon this 18th day of August, 1951, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once each week for four (4) successive weeks before the 19th day of September, 1951, giving notice to the said John C. Martin, against whom two successive subpoenaes have been returned "Non Est," of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 5th day of October, 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Baering Down On The News

(Distributed By INS)

I claim that dear Alben elected Truman as sure as fuzz on a peach. Perfidious Alben sold us a moose on the hoof. And charged us for the hay.

•—•—•

But you can't stay sore at amiable Alben when he turns on that old Kentucky bonded smile as innocent as a new-laid egg.

•—•—•

And a grateful Truman gave Alben the greatest gift a V. P. can receive after election. He let him keep on shooting off his puss. There has been great slaughter in oratorical cats.

Novelist Ends Life

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Francis Sill Wickware, 39-year-old novelist and magazine writer who once wrote an article on the ease with which dangerous drugs could be bought without a prescription, died today after telling his wife he had swallowed poison.

Cairo Demonstrators Rip Down Union Jack

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 26 (AP)—Demonstrators shouting anti-British slogans tore down a Union Jack fluttering outside the office of the British Overseas Airways Corp. in downtown Cairo today.

This was part of a demonstration, which the authorities did not permit to develop fully, on the 15th anniversary of the signing of the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty. No serious trouble resulted.

The two countries have been wrangling over the treaty since the end of World War II. The controversy hinges mainly on British troops stationed in the Suez Canal area.

Mossadegh Assailed By Iranian Deputy

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Iranian Majlis (lower house of parliament) was thrown into turmoil today when a deputy sharply assailed Premier Mohammed Mossadegh for failing to resolve the oil nationalization crisis with Britain.

Cries of "traitor!" arose and Jamal Imami, an influential deputy was forced to cut short his remarks.

"We nationalized our oil to put an end to poverty, not to endanger our independence," Imami declared. "If we had known our action might lead the country to destruction we would never have taken such a step."

County Farm Queen Places Second In State Contest

Miss Clara Jean Browning, 17-year-old Flintstone girl, who represented Allegany county in the Maryland farm queen contest Saturday at Timonium Fair, near Baltimore, was the second prize winner. She placed behind Miss Jean Endslow, 18, of Harford county, who will reign as queen of the State Fair at Timonium starting Wednesday.

The Flintstone high school senior almost missed the contest. Soon after she and members of her family left yesterday morning for Timonium a wheel came off their car. No one was hurt but Miss Browning arrived just in time for the judging. Miss Margaret Brenneman, of Garrett county, was among five other contestants who won awards in the judging.

All but Caroline county was represented in this year's contest. All of the contestants ranging in age from 16 to 18, wore cotton dresses. And for the first time they had to answer questions put to them by the judges about hobbies, farm life and similar subjects.

They were judged on appearance, personality, farm interest, poise and manners.

Judges were Miss Margaret E. Holloway, home demonstration agent for Baltimore county; Miss Helen Shelby, clothing specialist with the Extension Service at the University of Maryland, and Mrs. Abram Pearce, of the Maryland Council of Homemakers.

Other prize winners in this display were Mrs. Charles Wright, RFD 1, $5 second; Mrs. Nina Bender, Flintstone, $4 third; Mrs. Nelson Willison, RFD 4, $3 fourth, and Delores Airesman, Salisbury, Pa., $2 fifth.

Clubs Win $300

A total of $300 will be distributed among the 24 Allegany County Homemakers Clubs which competed in the theme booth competition. The first eight clubs in the contest were Union Grove, first, $25; Potomac Valley, second, $22; Mapleside, third, $20; Frostburg, fourth, $18; Homemakers' Chorus, fifth, $16; Lonaconing, sixth, $14; Shaft, seventh, $13, and North Branch, eighth, $12.

The next 16 clubs received $10 each. They were Oldtown, Flintstone, Happy Valley, Ellerslie, East Side, Bedford Road, Town Creek, Piney Plains, Midland, Midlothian, Polish Mountain, Cresaptown,edU2o North Cumberland, Spring Gap, Polish Mountain, Cresaptown, Eckhart and Pleasant Grove.

game, Ted Lauer of Keyser won three of the four events. He circled the bases in 15¼ seconds to beat "Mutt" Kuhn, beat Whiteman of Frostburg in the dash event and made the longest baseball throw—360 feet — beating Wayne Raines also of Keyser. Shields of Frostburg won the most accurate throw with Bo Hess, Keyser, second.

Westvaco's Papermakers racked up 25 hits in crushing Lonaconing.

Five Hits For Inskeep

Joe Inskeep rapped four doubles and a single, Bobby Muir collected a homer, double and two singles and Alec Ambrose smacked a tripile, double and two singles to head the Westvaco swatsmiths. Love pounded a two-bagger and single for 'Coney. "Woody" Woodson was the winning pitcher.

Six errors and poor base running paved the way to Cumberland's defeat at Stitcher Field. The Merchants outhit the Fireman, 14-13, and came near pulling the game out of the fire with a three-run rally in the last of the 9th.

Manager "Bee" Scarpelli with two doubles and a single and Gene Stair with a double and two singles paced the winners at the plate. "Pete" Deremer garnered two doubles and Bob Cook had a two-bagger and a single.

Vance Shears rapped three doubles in five trips for the Merchants as did Jack Lowe. Charley Genevie hammered a double and single while Ray Blackburn connected for a triple and one-bass swat. The scores:

Gavilan Defends Title Wednesday

Welter Champion To Face Graham

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, winner of his last ten fights, defends his crown for the first time Wednesday night against clever Billy Graham of New York in a 15-rounder in Madison Square Garden.

The flashy Cuban is a 2 to 1 choice to win his rubber bout with the 29-year old challenger. Last year, before Gavilan captured the title, the two split in a couple of ten rounders. Both fights were very close. But 1950 was not a very good year for the 25-year-old Cuban.

This year he concentrated on his work and swept all seven of his bouts, including the 15-round victory over Johnny Bratton on May 18 that gave him the championship.

Graham, on the other hand, has had only one bout in '51. He beat Billy Jenkins in an eight on Aug. 9 and may suffer from the lack of action.

The bout, starting at 9 p. m. (EST), will be broadcast and telecast by CBS. The air rights were sold for $50,000. A crowd of around 10,000 is expected to pay around $45,000 to see the show in the Garden.

On Monday, undefeated Rocky Marciano, Brockton, Mass., heavyweight contender, meets Freddie Beshore of Harrisburg, Pa., in a Boston ten.

'Flying Housewife' Takes All Events

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 26 (AP)—Fanny Blankers-Koen, the "Flying Housewife" from Holland, won all five events to capture the women's pentathlon here today during a Swiss-German track and field meet.

The 33-year-old Dutch Olympic champion, mother of two children, piled up a total of 4185 points.

Fanny ran the 200-meter dash in 24.5 seconds, high-jumped 4 feet, 11 inches, put the shot 36 feet, 4⅜ inches, ran the 80-meter hurdles in 11.2 seconds and broadjumped 19 feet, ⅜ inches.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Are "lonely hearts clubs" trustworthy?

Answer: Not all of them are "rackets," but so many of them have been used for one form or another of extortion that it's usually wiser to look elsewhere for a way to make new social contacts. One way, of course is to find a job in which you work with members of the opposite sex and another is to join a church, particularly one with numerous affiliated "clubs" for people of various ages. Still another way is to take up a hobby — photography, stamp-collecting or what you will—and join an organization devoted to it. Nothing gets you to know people better than doing things with them which both they and you enjoy.

Is the cause of schizophrenia known?

Answer: No one cause has yet been identified and perhaps none ever will be. For schizophrenia represents the total reaction of an individual to life as he sees it, and in this, both the sort of person he is and all that has happened to him since his birth are equally important factors. Dr. James T. Fisher even suggests that in certain cases "a chance change of environment or the companionship of a new-found and understanding friend" may steer the individual away from the decision to break off from the real world and retire to one of his own making. It is this decision— made entirely unconsciously — that constitutes schizophrenia.

Do hand X-rays show a child's development?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. William W Greulich of Stanford University. X-ray photographs of a child's hand and wrist show to what level he has developed physically, and the method has these advantages: (1) changes are easy to see; 2) they occur in orderly sequence; 3) they follow through the whole period from birth to adulthood and (4) they may be compared with those of other children. There appears to be a particularly close relationship between the maturation of the skeleton and the evolution of the reproductive system. If you fear your child's development has been retarded, here's a scientific way of "checking."

Seven Hurt In Weekend Auto Mishaps

Cumberland Man In Critical Condition

Seven men were injured—at least one of them critically—over the weekend in area highway accidents.

Most seriously hurt was John Stickley, 23, of 158 Polk Street, who was reported in critical condition at Memorial Hospital from head injuries. Stickley and Richard Roland, 18, Baltimore Pike, were hurt in an automobile accident on W. Va. Route 28 near the Old Furnace Road intersection about 10 o'clock Saturday night. Roland was reported in satisfactory condition at Memorial Hospital.

James Harrison Donald, 20, Charlestown Street, Lonaconing, another weekend accident victim, was injured when he fell from the back of a truck in which he was riding on Route 40.

Robert Bernard Wilt, 28, and John Lewis Alexander, 44, both of Midland, were hurt when the auto in which they were riding crashed into the back of a truck on Route 40A.

Cpl. O. G. Webley, of West Virginia State Police, investigating the mishap in which Stickley and Roland were injured reported that Virl Peer, RFD No. 1, Ridgeley, W. Va., gave this account of the accident:

Driving South

Peer was driving his truck south on Route 28, when he saw a car coming toward him weaving from side to side. To avoid a crash, he pulled off the road and parked. He said the car hit the left front side of the truck tearing off a fender, pulling loose the front wheel and twisting the left back dual wheels sideways. The truck then fell on its side.

Fell From Truck

Donald was admitted to Miners' Hospital, Frostburg, Saturday about 5 p. m. with fractures of both legs, possible head injuries and severe shock. He was riding on the rear of a truck hauling furniture to Garrett County when the cargo gave way and fell out on Route 40 at the foot of Little Savage Mountain. His condition remained fair last night.

Trooper Charles DeWitt, who investigated, said Donald attempted to grab the furniture as it shifted and moved to the rear. He toppled to the highway and some of the cargo apparently fell on him. Driver of the truck was not identified.

Hurt Near Hagerstown

A passing motorist, Curtis Green, of Frostburg, took Donald to the hospital and the truck later continued on its route.

Wilt and Alexander are patients at Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown. They were hurt when their car rammed against the rear of a truck on Route 40A, east of the Hub City.

Authorities said Wilt sustained internal injuries, fractures of the upper and lower jaws, nose and leg and facial lacerations. Alexander was hurt about the chest, and hospital attaches reported he may have a punctured lung and fractures of several ribs.

Wilt was driving east on South Mountain when it hit the truck operated by John H. Waters, of Baltimore, according to Trooper Richard Myers. The automobile was demolished.

All three of the injured were in "fair" condition last night.

Two other men suffered serious injuries Saturday when the car in which they were riding struck a bridge abutment near Hancock. Trooper Richard Garvey listed them as Thomas J. Lenihan and James Collaran, both of Chicago.

City Police Probe Tavern Burglary

Police said Hugh Stride, manager of the tavern, told them he and his wife returned from their vacation early yesterday morning to find the screen door to their apartment over the tavern had been forced.

Burglars had then used a "skeleton" key to open the house door. They took a glass bank containing about $15, then went downstairs to the tavern and stole seven or eight cartons of cigarettes. Nothing else was missing.

Police said the theft occurred some time after the tavern closed at midnight.

J. Paul Marshall, Montgomery County member of the House of Delegates, has announced he'll go after the Congressional seat now held by Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg.

Beall recently said he was thinking of trying for the Senate seat held by Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D-Md) but will make no definite decision for another month.

Today's Sermonette

Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. Matthew 4:1.

By REV. L. W. BURTON

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Park Place Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. L. W. Burton. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

He Was Tempted

Have you ever been tempted? Certainly Jesus was.

The message this morning is centered about our Lord's experience during the forty days when He was apart from men in the wilderness.

Rev. Burton

Our Lord wanted to be with the elemental forces of nature and the soul. When men live under the open skies they come very close to God, especially during the quiet hours that precede dawn they often come to a new awareness of our Father and His universe. Here in this wilderness Jesus felt very close to elementary evil, danger and fear, while at the same time He was so very near to God and spiritual awareness.

Notice that our Lord did not enter into this great temptation until He had first accepted his destiny; until He knew the great mission of His life.

Within each of the three specific temptations was included the great temptation. This great temptation was that Jesus might not fully accept the will of God for His life.

Let us look at the three temptations. "If thou be the Son of God command that these stones be made bread." We all know that we must eat to live; our Lord knew this. He never ignored the physical needs of man. He simply put first things first. The body needs physical bread, the soul needs spiritual bread, fundamentally we believe that one or the other comes first. Jesus rejected the materialistic way when He said, "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

The second temptation concerned a spectacular use of spiritual power. Had our Lord accepted Satan's offer at this time it would have shown people how they could use God for their own ends — how much they could get out of religion. Jesus had rejected the materialistic way. Now he had to reject the wrong spiritual way. False religion had proved to be as great a temptation at materialism. In reply to Satan's second call, our Lord answered, "It is written Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."

As Jesus stood on a high mountain surveying the kingdoms of the world Satan said to Him, "All these things will I give Thee, if Thou wilt fall down and worship me." Someone has defined politics as the science of the possible. We speak the same truth when we say, "It isn't what you know, but who you know that counts." This is the route of political short-cut. Jesus rejected this way as decisively as the other two. His answer? "Get thee hence Satan, for it is written, thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve."

Bread, spiritual power and politics are important, but not one of them or even all three taken together are the most important thing in life. Man's number one objective has not changed. It is to know and do the will of God.

Teter Will Compete In Tractor Test

Gary Teter of Flintstone is expected to leave Thursday to compete the following day with farm boys from most of the state's other 22 counties in the Tractor Operators' Contest in the 4-H program at the Timonium State Fair.

The contest will be one of the regularly scheduled 4-H events to take place between tomorrow and Sunday, September 2, at Timonium.

Young Teter was second in last year's contest and hopes to edge up into the top spot. Winner at Timonium will go to a northeastern regional contest at Springfield, Mass. The second place boy will be sent to the Atlantic Rural Exposition, Richmond, Va., to vie in the southeastern contest. Teter won the county contest at last week's Cumberland Fair.

According to Guy Gienger, University of Maryland agricultural engineer who is in charge of the contest, new tractors will be used and the boys will be given a practice period to acquire the "feel" of the machine. As part of the actual contest, the boys will first have to "service" their tractors by examining the air cleaner, the tires and checking the fuel supply, the oil and the water level.

They must start the engines in a safe and proper manner — scorers will be on hand to observe each boy. If the proper checking and safety measures are not carried out his negligence is counted against him.

As a test of actual driving ability each boy will attach a farm implement to his tractor, line up both implement and tractor and back them down alleys marked by stakes, draw the implement through gates, drive around a shed, then line up the attached implement and back it into the shed, and finally, uncouple the tractor from the implement. Then he will line up his tractor and belt to a blower or hammer mill. Each boy will be timed during his performance on this obstacle course.

Today Marks Anniversary Of Train Seizure

Army Still Holds Technical Control

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway will observe an anniversary without fanfare at 5 p. m. DST today.

At that hour the first anniversary of the U. S. Army's seizure of these two lines and the nation's other major railroads will be reached.

The Army's technical control of the nation's railroads has been so quiet and orderly that most people probably have even forgotten that it is a fact.

It was 5 p. m. DST, on Sunday, August 27, 1950, that the Army took over control of the railroads to avoid a nation-wide strike. It was the fourth time since 1943 that such an action had been taken by the Federal Government.

Some 300,000 trainmen and conductors had threatened to walk out the morning of August 28, 1950, over a wage-hour dispute unless President Truman should put the railroads under government control.

Roy Barton White, president of the B & O, as Col. White, was placed in charge of all railroads in this section a year ago and still holds this position. Six other railroad presidents were given jurisdiction in other sections of the country. All report to Secretary of the Army Frank Pace.

Although the dispute has not been settled a year later, the railroads still are operating.

Blown Fuse Shuts Off Phone Ringing Power

The ringing power for phones in Cumberland was cut off for several minutes last night by a blown fuse.

Richard E. Harman, manager of the local telephone office, said that the blown fuse was a routine difficulty. He explained that a maintenance man at the central office quickly replaced the fuse. The only persons aware of the difficulty were those few who tried to make calls during the two-minute lull.

Brother, Sister Reunited After 46 Years Separation

Seeing her brother for the first time in 46 years was the pleasant experience of a Cumberland resident last week.

Mollie Baker Reid, 74, of 123 Cumberland Street, and James Baker Clark, 71, become separated when children and while he was passing through Cumberland on vacation was able to locate her through the city police.

When Mrs. Reid was about 12 years old her mother died and the father took the other four members of the family to Baltimore where they were adopted. She remained in Cumberland and is now residing at the home of a son Robert P. Reid, retired assistant chief of the city fire department.

The last time she had heard from Clark was in Atlanta, Ga., where he had been working as a pharmacist. He later moved to Florida and they lost contact with each other. The brother had been on vacation last week and was coming from New York. He realized there would be a possibility of locating his sister in Cumberland, where he had left at the age of eight. With the assistance of police, the two were united.

Mrs. Reid has two other children, Mrs. Mabel Bogler, 313 Paca Street and James Reid, Hyndman. Clark has three children, two married daughters in Texas and a son who resides in Florida. And now that the brother and sister, separated for nearly a half century, know the whereabouts of each other, another reunion is planned at an early date, Mrs. Reid said yesterday.
